Auto Union Rips General Motors In Price Cut Plan

DETROIT (AP)—The chief of the United Auto Workers union today accused General Motors of a "shocking disregard" for the public welfare.

Walter Reuther, president of the UAW, made the accusation after GM, replying to Reuther's proposal for a $100 price cut on 1958 car models, asked the UAW to extend its GM contract two years as a "contribution to economic stability."

President Harlow Curtice of General Motors made the reply the first from the auto industry.

Reuther had portrayed his proposal as a means for fighting inflation. He interpreted Curtice's response as an "arbitrary rejection" of the union proposal.

The UAW chief also charged GM with intending "to go on short-changing American consumers through higher prices."

Curtice made his counter-proposal in a letter to Reuther describing it as a constructive step against inflation. The UAW leader answered in a public statement. He then denounced GM, declaring the company "evades basic issues."

Reuther proposed to the auto industry's Big Three of GM, Chrysler and Ford that they cut 1958 car prices by an average of $100 a car. In return he said the union would be willing to adjust next year's contract demands.

Reuther has not indicated what concessions the union might offer. The UAW has said it will seek higher wages and a shorter work week next spring when three-year contracts in the auto industry expire.

An extension of contracts, as Curtice proposed, would not infringe on cost-of-living changes or annual productivity increases not provided for in the contracts. The auto worker's present average pay is about $2.30 an hour.

The Curtice-Reuther exchange came on the same day the government announced a cost-of-living increase for the 13th straight month.

Auto workers, through their escalator-clause contracts, get a 3-cent hourly pay raise effective the week of Sept. 1.

Curtice's only specific reference to the union's car price cut proposal was a statement that GM's prices were "not properly the subject of collective bargaining."

Prices on 1958 model cars will not be announced until later in the year. Industry sources have said they may be higher in view of increased labor and material costs.

Spokesmen for groups in the newspaper field said Dulles' move was a step in the right direction, but that it ought to go further.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called it "a long overdue but welcome retreat from an untenable position. If Red China will permit American newsmen to observe and report on happenings on the mainland, this could very well be the lifting of the Iron Curtain."

"This could bring profound political repercussions. The next step might well be the release of American prisoners and a final settlement of the Korean war."

SEN. KNOWLAND of California, Senate Republican leader, said it was "desirable to give the American people access to the news on the Chinese mainland without having to get it second hand, either through Red propaganda agencies or foreign news services of other countries."

Humphrey and some others criticized the limitation on the number of newsmen to be permitted to travel to Communist China.

Dulles designated 24 news organizations and authorized them to send one reporter apiece. He said these were the organizations which had replied affirmatively to a poll on the question of stationing a fulltime American correspondent on the China mainland for six months or longer. Officials said fewer than 100 replies were received to Dulles' survey of selected news organizations.

The Associated Press assigned John Roderick, now stationed at Hong Kong, to represent it and this newspaper in Communist China.

Blessing Quits School Race

The Fayette County Board of Education disclosed Friday that Leonard Blessing, who had filed for one of the two vacancies on the Miami Trace Local School District, subject to the Nov. 5 general election has withdrawn and left the field with four candidates.

Remaining candidates are Ralph N. Agle, Alfred Hagler, Robert T. Owens and J. Herbert Perrill. The latter two, Owens and Perrill, are currently members of the board and are running for reelection.

Millions in U. S. May Suffer Flu

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney estimates that an epidemic of Asiatic flu this fall or winter might strike between 13 million and 26 million Americans.

Burney said he figured that many might be stricken in event of an epidemic, even if a newly developed vaccine are expected to be available by Feb. 1. The Public Health Service estimates the vaccine will be only about 70 per cent effective.

HOFFA PLANS UNION 'CLEANUP'

Archers Operate Butcher Shop

SAN DIMAS, Calif. (AP)—A charge of grand theft has been filed against two bow and arrow hunters accused of setting up a do-it-yourself butcher shop in a farmer's pasture.

The sheriff's office said the pair killed and butchered one calf and wounded another. Taken into custody Thursday were Robert E. Jackson, 19, of Azusa, and Donald N. Jensen, 23, of Claremont. Detectives traced the arrows to a man who said he made them for Jackson.

AEC Reports Another Red A-Explosion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia has resumed atomic tests with a blast of "substantial" power Thursday, the Atomic Energy Commission announced today.

An announcement from AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss said: "The Soviet Union has resumed testing of nuclear weapons at its Siberian proving grounds. A detonation of substantial size took place on Aug. 22."

The development comes in the midst of Soviet maneuvers in the London disarmament conference with the ostensible aim of cutting off all nuclear tests.

The United States, while offering to call off tests for two years, is insisting on safeguards which the Russians reject.

The last previous AEC announcement of a Soviet nuclear weapon test came April 18.

The blast was described as "one of the largest thus far in the current Soviet series." Strauss said it was the fifth in a series which began April 13. It was the 11th reported since last August.

Altogether, including today's announcement, the AEC has reported 24 Russian test blasts.

The United States itself is in the midst of a test series at the AEC proving ground in Nevada.

The 13th in that series—the 58th set off at the Nevada test site over the years—was exploded less than an hour after the announcement of the Soviet explosion.

Ohio State Fair Opens 8-Day Run

COLUMBUS (AP)—Fair skies and warm, sunny weather greeted today's opening of the 103rd annual Ohio State Fair.

Officially, Gov. C. William O'Neill was the first visitor. He cut the gate ribbon at 6 a. m.

Just how many other sightseers follow him through the eight-day stay at the vast fairgrounds here, officials were unwilling to estimate, but fair manager D. Robert Jones said he hopes to see more than half a million paid admissions.

A multitude of sights and attractions, from the swing rhythms of Blue Barron and his orchestra to the newest exhibits in modern farm implements will be on tap.

Jones, who says this year's fair aims to tell the people of Ohio the story of Ohio, has developed the displays around what he termed "people, products and action," rather than the "still" type of exhibit.

Livestock entries by the thousands will be on view, along with displays of all types of machinery to interest not only the farmer, but the casual gardener, the businessman and the housewife.

A NUMBER of harness races will be held and Thursday, O'Neill will present the Governor's Cup to the winner of the feature race.

Lined up to entertain the visitors are stars of stage, radio, television and the screen.

Tennessee Ernie Ford will have three shows Sunday, designated as Newspaper Day.

A special show designed for children will be shown at the Coliseum today and Saturday. Ricky Nelson, Molly Bee, Rin Tin Tin, Rusty and Lt. Rip Masters head the bill.

The fairgrounds have been considerably brightened, Jones said, at a cost of $125,000. One of the most noticeable projects is the old music hall, now converted into a little theater.

Here are some of the highlights open to fairgoers: A livestock exhibition with more than 12,000 animals on the grounds.

Belle Aire Subdivision for 840 Acres of Farmland?

Rural Members of Citizens Panel Urge City-Miami Trace Territory Exchange

Over the objection of the three city-appointed members, who charged that the action was being railroaded through without study or consultation, the Fayette County Citizens Committee Thursday night recommended the transfer of the Washington C. H. Belle Aire subdivision to Miami Trace school district for school purposes and the transfer of 840 acres of farmland, most of it between the CCC highway east and Route 22, to the city district.

Approval of the proposal, which was submitted by member Charles Burke, came on the customary 6-3 vote—the rural members of the committee arrayed against the city members.

The transfers of territory would become effective as of July 1, 1958, if approved by the electors of the districts involved. There was no indication of how the voting machinery would be utilized for this purpose.

The 840 acres includes tracts owned by Clifford and Pauline LeWellan, James McWilliam, John W. Hutchinson, J. Burke, Sammie Coil, Benjamin S. Story, Jr., Harford Hankins, William K. and Pauline V. Robinson and Dwight Coffman. It also includes that part of the Fayette Memorial Hospital grounds lying outside the city limits and 29 acres owned by the Ohio Water Service Co. on part of which the city has proposed to build a new East Side school.

THERE WAS no indication of the number of school children involved.

The Belle Aire addition which the proposal recommends for transfer to the Miami Trace district lies, roughly, south of Elm St. and west of Armbrust Ave. It contains a reported 156 school children.

The resolution was passed after member Ray Brandenburg moved that it be tabled—a motion defeated by the usual 6-3 vote.

Burke declared that his recommendation would give the city room for expansion and give the people "a chance to say what they want to do."

MEMBER Edward Cunningham, who urged that the committee complete its study of all facets of the city-county school situation before taking precipitate action now, asked where the Miami Trace district could house 150 children. The answer was in the three Union Township buildings.

The territorial transfer recommendation was a sudden move late in a long session devoted largely to progress reports by chairmen of study panels previously named by Committee Chairman Carl James.

In each case city members of the committee pointed out that they either had not been consulted on matters covered or had

Sen. John F. Kennedy

Testifying, James R. Hoffa peers over a case of records.

CHAIRMAN of the Senate rackets committee, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Massachusetts), introduced a wiretap recording of a phone conversation between James R. Hoffa, Teamsters union crown prince, and gangster Johnny Dio, at the investigation in Washington. Kennedy said the recording was "the first of a series of curious interrelationships between Hoffa and Dio. Hoffa is accused of conspiring with Dio and other racketeers to set up bogus union locals in order to gain control of Teamsters in New York."

Actor Can Try Again in '58 To Be General

WASHINGTON (AP)—Air Force Reserve Col. James Maitland Stewart, better known as film star Jimmy Stewart, won't make brigadier general this year. But he will get another chance in 1958.

By a reported vote of 12-2, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) Thursday won her six months' battle in the Senate Armed Services Committee against Stewart's promotion to one-star rank.

The committee approved promotions for nine other Air Force Reservists—six of them colonels who would go to brigadier, and three brigadiers who would go to major general.

Chief complaint of Sen. Smith, a lieutenant colonel herself in the Air Force Reserve, was that Stewart and some other nominees had not performed regular training required of lower ranking Reservists in line for promotion.

Stewart, vacationing in Nevada, commented:

"I was very honored to receive the nomination for this promotion from President Eisenhower and the Air Force. I intend to continue to do my best to fulfill my duty requirements as a Reserve Officer in the Strategic Air Command."

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) said the committee was somewhat concerned about Stewart's proposed promotion to reserve deputy chief of operations for SAC.

Although Stewart was a World War II combat pilot and commander, Russell said Stewart had not maintained his flight qualifications and had spent only one or two weeks in active duty training in 11 years, until the promotion moves started.

Syrian Claims U. S. Raises False Threat of Communism

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syria's acting defense minister has charged the United States raised a false threat of a Communist takeover in Syria in order to hide its own bid for greater Middle Eastern influence.

Khaled el Azem joined other Syrian officials in denying that Syria is falling under Soviet control as a result of leftist officers taking control of the army.

The United States knows Syria will not accept foreign influence, Azem told American reporters Thursday.

"You pretend we have become Communist and are under the influence of the Soviet Union. You use this as a weapon and propaganda, hoping to frighten people who fear communism and who are afraid about their goods," the defense chief asserted. "You use it to force American and European support of American policy in the Middle East."

"IF YOU TOLD people frankly the real purpose, which is to replace British and French influence by you, own and to guarantee the interest of oil companies and other monopolies, the American people would not help by giving you funds."

A statement read by Azem said the American people and President Eisenhower fail to understand the Arab mind and Arab aims. U. S. help to imperialism and Zionism, "willing or unwilling, is preventing any understanding between the Arab and American peoples," he declared.

"In addition, you (America) want to dictate your will to all people and want them to follow the same policy. You want to dominate large and small countries."

Azem said Russia "wants Syria to be entirely free from the influence of the West as well as the Soviet Union itself."

A London newspaper, the Daily Express, reported from Damascus that thousands of Russian volunteers are pouring into Syria "to fight for the Syrians when Syria feels the time has come to try to roll Israel into the sea."

Correspondent Don Alder wrote that the Russians are estimated already to have sent Syria 250 tanks and 60 MIG jet fighters.

In London, diplomatic sources said Syria's anti-Communist neighbors plan to isolate her in an effort to cordon off Soviet influence. The Arab neighbors are Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq and Turkey.

The informants said the United States and Britain have decided against any open intervention against the leftist trend.

Food Poisoning Hits Ohio Pen Inmates

COLUMBUS (AP)—Warden Ralph W. Alvis of Ohio Penitentiary reports that food poisoning resulted in hospitalization of 84 penitentiary inmates and treating of as many more.

Alvis said improperly cleaned dinner trays apparently caused the food contamination.

None of the 84 inmates admitted to the prison hospital between 2:30 p. m. and midnight Wednesday was seriously ill, the warden said, adding they suffered from "diarrhea and stomach upsets."

He said 51 of the sick inmates were released from the hospital Thursday and 29 more were released this morning.

Thug Element Is 'Surprise' To Union Chief

'Shocked', He Pleads Innocence Before Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa pronounced himself "shocked and disturbed" today by the presence of New York underworld characters in the Teamsters Union and pledged a cleanup if he is elected union president.

Restrainingly, the Midwest boss of the Teamsters said that "from indications around the country" he will be called on to head the giant union next month.

Hoffa's declaration of clean up intentions was given to the Senate Rackets Committee.

"Amazing," commented Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy.

For four days, Kennedy has been developing a contention that the underworld characters got into the union in the first place through machinations of Hoffa in alliance with mobster Johnny Dio.

Kennedy accused Hoffa of using hoodlums and gangsters to gain union powers and now, before the committee, "turning his back" on the hoodlums.

"I WON'T TURN my back on anybody," Hoffa protested.

Kennedy read police records of a number of men he said are working now for Hoffa in Detroit. Without naming the men, Kennedy listed arrests and convictions for them of such crimes as armed robbery and assault.

"Do you mean he has people like that working for him right now?" asked Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.).

Hoffa broke in: "Now wait a minute, Sen. McClellan, this is just being unveiled to me right now." Hoffa himself then identified one of the men.

"Your rise to power was based on these people," Kennedy charged. "Yet you now tell us you're going to investigate them. It just doesn't make sense."

Only moments earlier, Hoffa had testified under Kennedy's questioning that he has agreed to "look out for" Dio's family if Dio has a long prison stay.

KENNEDY WAS slugging away with questions about Hoffa's relations with Dio when Sen. Ives (R-NY) popped in some questions about Hoffa's intentions if he is elected union president.

In response, Hoffa said that "friendship or not" he would take disciplinary action against John McNamara of New York Teamster Local 195 if a union hearing shows that McNamara was instrumental in setting up "phony" New York Teamster locals staffed by officers from the underworld.

"I am shocked and disturbed

Gambler's Body Stuffed in Car

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Police in Wheeling, W. Va., and Pittsburgh sought today to learn who killed a Wheeling cafe operator in gangland fashion by stuffing him into the trunk of his expensive auto.

The decomposed body of Nick Miller, 46, also known as Nick Vosovick, was found Thursday. His 1957 $6,000 car was parked on a quiet residential street in Wilk, a community 10 miles from midtown Pittsburgh.

Miller, who had a long string of gambling arrests and who had served time in Ohio and West Virginia penal institutions, was last seen Saturday night when he left his wife and two children in Wheeling. He told friends he was "going on a vacation" for a few days.

2 Men Condemned For Fatal Blaze

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two men were sentenced to death and a third to life in prison Thursday for murder at the Club Mecca.

Six persons died last April 4 when the neighborhood tavern suddenly erupted in flames. Trial evidence showed two of the men sloshed a can of gasoline into the place and set it afire. They had been thrown out earlier because of unwelcome attentions to a woman customer.

Clyde Bates, 26-year-old former convict, and Manuel Chavez, 25, were sentenced to death. Manuel J. Hernandez, 18, who drove the get-away car, drew the life term.

Auto Union Rips General Motors In Price Cut Plan

DETROIT (AP)—The chief of the United Auto Workers union today accused General Motors of a "shocking disregard" for the public welfare.

Walter Reuther, president of the UAW, made the accusation after GM, replying to Reuther's proposal for a $100 price cut on 1958 car models, asked the UAW to extend its GM contract two years as a "contribution to economic stability."

President Harlow Curtice of General Motors made the reply, the first from the auto industry.

Curtice's only specific reference to the union's car price cut proposal was a statement that GM's prices were "not properly the subject of collective bargaining."

Prices on 1958 model cars will not be announced until later in the year. Industry sources have said they may be higher in view of increased labor and material costs.

Pay-See TV Proposal Hit By Senator

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) said today pay television would be "a sort of domestic slot-machine operation" that might even find viewers paying to watch campaign speeches and political conventions.

In a speech prepared for the Senate, he opposed authorization by the Federal Communications Commission of a proposed test period for subscription TV.

Some of the pay television plans proposed would require a viewer to deposit money in a coin device on his set to receive an unscrambled picture. Advocates of toll TV say pay programs would include championship sports events and first-run movies.

The FCC has said it has the power to authorize such a test.

Potter said the American TV viewer has spent $15 billion for television sets "on the assumption that he was buying an instrument over which he would receive free programs without further assessment other than that required for the maintenance of the set."

"He had every right to that assumption because it was this Congress which enacted legislation based upon the historic premise that broadcasting would be free and that we would not pursue systems employed in many other nations throughout the world that provide for the regular collection of taxes for the privilege of using the set."

A statement read by Azem said the American people and President Eisenhower fail to understand the Arab mind and Arab aims. U. S. help to imperialism and Zionism, "willing or unwillingly, is preventing any understanding between the Arab and American peoples," he declared.

"In addition, you (America) want to dictate your will to all people and want them to follow the same policy. You want to dominate large and small countries."

Azem said Russia "wants Syria to be entirely free from the influence of the West as well as the Soviet Union itself."

A London newspaper, the Daily Express, reported from Damascus that thousands of Russian volunteers are pouring into Syria "to fight for the Syrians when Syria feels the time has come to try to roll Israel into the sea."

Correspondent Donald Wise wrote that the Russians are estimated already to have sent Syria 250 tanks and 60 MIG jet fighters.

In London, diplomatic sources said Syria's anti-Communist neighbors plan to isolate her in an effort to cordon off Soviet influence. The Arab neighbors are Lebanon, Jordan, Iraq and Turkey.

The informants said the United States and Britain have decided against any open intervention against the leftist trend.

Thug Element Is 'Surprise' To Union Chief

'Shocked', He Pleads Innocence Before Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa pronounced himself "shocked and disturbed" today by the presence of New York underworld characters in the Teamsters Union and pledged a cleanup if he is elected union president.

Restrainingly, the Midwest boss of the Teamsters said that "from indications around the country" he will be called on to head the giant union next month.

Hoffa's declaration of clean up intentions was given to the Senate Rackets Committee.

"Amazing," commented Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy.

For four days, Kennedy has been developing a contention that the underworld characters got into the union in the first place through machinations of Hoffa in alliance with mobster Johnny Dio.

Kennedy accused Hoffa of using hoodlums and gangsters to gain union powers and now, before the committee, "turning his back" on the hoodlums.

"I WON'T TURN my back on anybody," Hoffa protested.

Kennedy read police records of a number of men he said are working now for Hoffa in Detroit. Without naming the men, Kennedy listed arrests and convictions for them of such crimes as armed robbery and assault.

"Do you mean he has people like that working for him right now?" asked Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

Hoffa broke in: "Now wait a minute, Sen. McClellan, this is just being unveiled to me right now."

Hoffa himself then identified one of the men.

"Your rise to power was based on these people," Kennedy charged. "Yet you now tell us you're going to investigate them. It just doesn't make sense."

Only moments earlier, Hoffa had testified under Kennedy's questioning that he has agreed to "look out for" Dio's family if Dio has a long prison stay.

KENNEDY WAS slugging away with questions about Hoffa's relations with Dio when Sen. Ives (R-NY) popped in some questions about Hoffa's intentions if he is elected union president.

In response, Hoffa said that "friendship or not" he would take disciplinary action against John McNamara of New York Teamster Local 195 if a union hearing shows that McNamara was instrumental in setting up "phony" New York Teamster locals staffed by officers from the underworld.

"I am shocked and disturbed

Gambler's Body Stuffed in Car

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Police in Wheeling, W. Va., and Pittsburgh sought today to learn who killed a Wheeling cafe operator in gangland fashion by stuffing him into the trunk of his expensive auto.

The decomposed body of Nick Miller, 46, also known as Nick Vosovick, was found Thursday. His 1957 $6,000 car was parked on a quiet residential street in Wilkesburg, a community 10 miles from midtown Pittsburgh.

Miller, who had a long string of gambling arrests and who had served time in Ohio and West Virginia penal institutions, was last seen Saturday night when he left his wife and two children in Wheeling. He told friends he was "going on a vacation" for a few days.

2 Men Condemned For Fatal Blaze

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Two men were sentenced to death and a third to life in prison Thursday for murder at the Club Mecca.

Six persons died last April 4 when the neighborhood tavern suddenly erupted in flames. Trial evidence showed two of the men sloshed a can of gasoline into the place and set it afire. They had been thrown out earlier because of unwelcome attentions to a woman customer.

Clyde Bates, 36-year-old former convict, and Manuel Chavez, 25, were sentenced to death. Manuel J. Hernandez, 18, who drove the get-away car, drew the life term.

24 Reporters Going to China

State Department OKs Trips by U. S. Newsmen

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles won commendation in Congress today for his decision to permit 24 American newsmen to report from inside Red China.

Dulles' action Thursday allowing these newsmen to be stationed there on a six-month trial basis points to an end of an eight-year blackout on direct reporting by Americans from the China mainland.

Spokesmen for groups in the newspaper field said Dulles' move was a step in the right direction, but that it ought to go further.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) called it "a long overdue but welcome retreat from an untenable position. If Red China will permit American newsmen to observe and report on happenings on the mainland, this could very well be the lifting of the Iron Curtain."

"This could bring profound political repercussions. The next step might well be the release of American prisoners and a final settlement of the Korean war."

SEN. KNOWLAND of California, Senate Republican leader, said it was "desirable to give the American people access to the news on the Chinese mainland without having to get it second hand, either through Red propaganda agencies or foreign news services of other countries."

Humphrey and some others criticized the limitation on the number of newsmen to be permitted to travel to Communist China.

Dulles designated 24 news organizations and authorized them to send one reporter apiece. He said these were the organizations which had replied affirmatively to a poll on the question of stationing a fulltime American correspondent on the China mainland for six months or longer. Officials said fewer than 100 replies were received to Dulles' survey of selected news organizations.

The Associated Press assigned John Roderick, now stationed at Hong Kong, to represent it in this newspaper in Communist China.

Millions in U. S. May Suffer Flu

WASHINGTON (AP)—Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney estimates that an epidemic of Asiatic flu this fall or winter might strike between 13 million and 26 million Americans.

Burney said he figured that many might be stricken in event of an epidemic, even if a newly developed vaccine are expected to be available by Feb. 1. The Public Health Service estimates the vaccine will be only about 70 per cent effective.

Three Accident Victims Treated

Three emergency cases were treated and released at Fayette Memorial Hospital Thursday.

James H. Neal, a construction worker at National Cash Register, fell and bruised his right leg and side.

Eugene Howland, Route 2, Mt. Sterling, suffered a fractured left arm and a sprained left ankle when he fell from a ladder while painting in Washington C. H.

Lawrence Alexander, a plastering contractor, was injured Thursday afternoon when he was pinned between a truck and a wall on Armbrust Ave. He was treated for bruises of the abdomen.

Water Service Vote Curtailed

COLUMBUS — Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds Thursday signed a final order that prevents the secretary of state from putting on the November ballot a controversial water service plan.

Thursday was the last day for Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to certify a proposed constitutional amendment that would place municipal sewer and water service control outside cities under state control.

Now municipalities may sell up to 50 per cent of their sewer and water services outside city limits.

Brown said he would discuss Judge Reynolds' ruling with the attorney general before deciding whether to appeal it.

DENVER — Recognition of Red China in the United Nations by the United States is sought in a resolution adopted by the National Conference of Methodist Youth.

The conference, representing 1½ million young Methodists, will conclude here today.

very much as to what these individuals did and how they got there," Hoffa said.

Ives said that Hoffa had "conducted with bums and criminals" throughout almost his entire career, and that he wanted to know whether Hoffa would continue to do so if elected president of the union.

"I intend to conduct myself in keeping with respectability," Hoffa replied.

He said that President Dave Beck made the decision on issuing the New York charters.

"You were the one who suggested these charters be issued," Kennedy said.

"Are you trying to place the blame for all this on Beck?" Sen. McClellan put in.

"No, sir," Hoffa replied, adding that if he had the responsibility, he would assume it.

The Dio family, which Hoffa said he had agreed to look after, has Mrs. Dio and two children.

DIO NOW is in Tombs Prison in New York, awaiting sentence on a shakedown conspiracy conviction. He is also under indictment in connection with the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, and faces charges of income tax violations.

If convicted on the income tax charges, the 43-year-old Dio could get a sentence up to 20 years.

Hoffa acknowledged Thursday that in 1953 he had had dealings with Dio about organizing New York taxi drivers. But he insisted he did not know then Dio had a record of shakedowns.

Under further questioning today, Hoffa said he still has a friendly relationship with the racketeer and told of the promise to look out for Mrs. Dio.

Still pleading a faulty memory, Hoffa repeatedly told the committee he can't recall whether he had business dealings with Dio.

"I can never recall doing any business with Dio," Hoffa said under questioning by Kennedy.

not had a chance to participate in preparing the report itself.

When an effort was made to extend the studies indefinitely, Brandenburg, who at a previous meeting had won formal agreement on a 60-day limitation on the inter-committee survey of school problems, charged that the six rural members of the body were engaged in a stalling tactic and that the city-appointed members, outvoted 6 to 3, were stymied in what he felt was the real purpose of the Citizen Committee—to select a competent survey agency for an objective survey of the Fayette County-Washington City situation.

AFTER MEMBER Ancel Creamer stated that certain aspects of the situation could be better studied after students are in school, Cunningham's motion to grant another 60 days, rather than an indefinite period, for the study sessions was approved by unanimous vote.

A report submitted by Creamer heading the subcommittee on finance, was "filled with assumptions rather than facts," Brandenburg stated after pointing out that he accompanied Burke and Floyd Hoppes, two members of a panel on legislative action to Columbus on a fact-finding expedition, he was not consulted in the preparation of that report.

Cunningham declared that the committee reports "were written to represent nothing but propaganda and not facts—that the committee was going far afield from the purpose of the statute under which it was organized."

Walter F. Rettig, third city-appointed member of the committee, pointed out that he had not seen Creamer, chairman of the finance panel, since the committee was organized and that he had never seen the progress report which Creamer delivered at the meeting.

OTHER INCOMPLETE reports were made on school legislation in the 102nd General Assembly and on "conformity of attendance with legal standards," the latter detailing a meeting of the committee members with City Superintendent W. A. Smith.

The report is primarily concerned with 46 students whom certain Miami Trace residents have claimed were residents of that district but who were attending Washington High School.

According to city school authorities these students or their parents have met certain requirements for attendance set up by the board, and a letter was read from R. M. Eymann, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, who said that he had investigated complaints forward to his office but could not hold that the students cited were in unauthorized attendance at Washington High School.

Also read was a letter from Elmer Reed, member of the city board, who asked the Citizens Committee panel on legal standards of attendance to investigate Union Township local records on unauthorized attendance for the period from Sept. 1951 through May 1956 and the Miami Trace local district records on the same subject from Sept. 1955 through May 1956.

Reed asked that the results be reported to the full committee, and on motion it was agreed that such an investigation should be made.

Water Service Vote Curtailed

COLUMBUS (P)—Common Pleas Judge Dana F. Reynolds Thursday signed a final order that prevents the secretary of state from putting on the November ballot a controversial water service plan.

Thursday was the last day for Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to certify a proposed constitutional amendment that would place municipal sewer and water service control outside cities under state control.

Now municipalities may sell up to 50 per cent of their sewer and water services outside city limits.

Brown said he would discuss Judge Reynolds' ruling with the attorney general before deciding whether to appeal it.

very much as to what these individuals did and how they got there," Hoffa said.

Ives said that Hoffa had "conducted with bums and criminals" throughout almost his entire career, and that he wanted to know whether Hoffa would continue to do so if elected president of the union.

"I intend to conduct myself in keeping with respectability," Hoffa replied.

He said that President Dave Beck made the decision on issuing the New York charters.

"You were the one who suggested these charters be issued," Kennedy said.

"Are you trying to place the blame for all this on Beck?" Sen. McClellan put in.

"No, sir," Hoffa replied, adding that if he had the responsibility, he would assume it.

The Dio family, which Hoffa said he had agreed to look after, is Mrs. Dio and two children.

DIO NOW is in Tombs Prison in New York, awaiting sentence on a shakedown conspiracy conviction. He is also under indictment in connection with the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, and faces charges of income tax violations.

If convicted on the income tax charges, the 43-year-old Dio could get a sentence up to 20 years.

Hoffa acknowledged Thursday that in 1953 he had had dealings with Dio about organizing New York taxi drivers. But he insisted he did not know then Dio had a record of shakedowns.

Under further questioning today, Hoffa said he still has a friendly relationship with the racketeer and told of the promise to look out for Mrs. Dio.

Still pleading a faulty memory, Hoffa repeatedly told the committee he can't recall whether he had business dealings with Dio.

"I can never recall doing any business with Dio," Hoffa said under questioning by Kennedy.

not had a chance to participate in preparing the report itself.

When an effort was made to extend the studies indefinitely, Brandenburg, who at a previous meeting had won formal agreement on a 60-day limitation on the inter-committee survey of school problems, charged that the six rural members of the body were engaged in a stalling tactic and that the city-appointed members, outvoted 6 to 3, were stymied in what he felt was the real purpose of the Citizens Committee—to select a competent survey agency for an objective survey of the Fayette County-Washington City situation.

AFTER MEMBER Ansel Creamer stated that certain aspects of the situation could be better studied after students are in school, Cunningham's motion to grant another 60 days, rather than an indefinite period, for the study sessions was approved by unanimous vote.

A report submitted by Creamer heading the subcommittee on finance, was "filled with assumptions rather than facts," Brandenburg stated after pointing out that while he accompanied Burke and Floyd Hoppes, two members of a panel on legislative action to Columbus on a fact-finding expedition, he was not consulted in the preparation of that report.

Cunningham declared that the committee reports "were written to represent nothing but propaganda and not facts—that the committee was going far afield from the purpose of the statute under which it was organized."

Walter F. Rettig, third city-appointed member of the committee, pointed out that he had not seen Creamer, chairman of the finance panel, since the committee was organized and that he had never seen the progress report which Creamer delivered at the meeting.

OTHER INCOMPLETE reports were made on school legislation in the 102nd General Assembly and on "conformity of attendance with legal standards," the latter detailing a meeting of the committee members with City Superintendent W. A. Smith.

The report is primarily concerned with 46 students whom certain Miami Trace residents have claimed were residents of that district but who were attending Washington High School.

According to city school authorities these students or their parents have met certain requirements for attendance set up by the board, and a letter was read from R. M. Eymann, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, who said that he had investigated complaints forward to his office but could not hold that the students cited were in unauthorized attendance at Washington High School.

Also read was a letter from Elmer Reed, member of the city board, who asked the Citizens Committee panel on legal standards of attendance to investigate Union Township local records on unauthorized attendance for the period from Sept. 1951 through May 1956 and the Miami Trace local district records on the same subject from Sept. 1955 through May 1956.

Reed asked that the results be reported to the full committee, and on motion it was agreed that such an investigation should be made.

Trapshooters Aiming at Grand Jewel

VANDALIA (U) — Trapshooting's crown jewel, the Grand American Handicap, is today's offering at the 56th Grand American clay target carnival.

The 100-target event, with some 2,200 marksmen firing from anywhere from 18 to 27 yards back of the traphouse, carried a first place prize of around $7,000 for the winner. Marksmen from every state in the union, and all of Canada's provinces, are in the fight for the crown.

A year ago 2,136 fired for the laurels and C. W. Brown of Dayton, an unheralded shooter, broke 79 from 19 yards to take the title.

If history repeats, it will be another unknown from nowhere who ascends trapshooting's throne late today, for no "name" shooter has ever won the big event.

In Thursday's preliminary grand, an exact replica of today's event, Arlen J. Kimmel, a 39-year-old steel company inspector from Valley View, Pa., came from nowhere to win and pick up some $7,000 in prize money.

In other divisions of the preliminary Helen Monk Delmonico, Miami, Fla., beautician, broke 94 of 100 to win the women's championship; Joseph Newmaster of Lebanon, Pa., grabbed the junior championship with 95, and R. J. Tobin of St. Lampert, Quebec, outshot the United States professionals with 95 from 20 yards to take the pro title.

JET BOMBER HITS THE DECK--AND THE OCEAN

MAKING A TEST FLIGHT in the eastern Pacific, an A3D-2 Skywarrior twin-jet bomber attempts a landing on the USS Ticonderoga. The arresting gear didn't hold and the pilot, knowing the next stop was the ocean, pulled the plane's nose up (top left). The 23-ton craft sent spray flying as it hit the water (top right). The nose section broke free and the pilot and crewman bobbed in the water (lower, circle) for four minutes until a helicopter picked them up. (International Soundphotos)

2-Way Mexican Hurler Is Lauded

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (U) — A 12-year-old "angel" who pitches a baseball lefty and righty carries Mexico's bid to become the first foreign country to win a Little League World Series.

Angel Macias, the two-way hurler, has been nominated to pitch for Monterrey, Mexico, against La Mesa, Calif., in today's final of the 11th annual international playoffs for boys 8 to 12.

By winning Thursday in the opening of the streamlined world series competition the Mexico and California entries become the survivors of a 4,500-team playoff that began weeks ago on the local level.

No 70-Cent Prize To Be Given for British Balloon

DAYTON (U) — There'll be no 70-cent prize for Mrs. Kenneth Michael of Dayton.

She mailed a tag, which supposedly came off a toy balloon sent aloft in England to a man who gave it to her while both were passengers on an airplane in Great Britain.

The tag, with its Ohio postmark, caused an uproar in England among people who claimed it is almost impossible for a toy balloon to drift all the way from England to Ohio, U. S. A.

Had the tag actually reached America on a balloon, instead of with Mrs. Michael and her two daughters on an airplane, the Dayton woman would have been eligible for the 70-cent prize. The contest is being held in Heanor, England, to see how far a toy balloon will fly.

Trapshooters Aiming at Grand Jewel

VANDALIA (AP) — Trapshooting's crown jewel, the Grand American Handicap, is today's offering at the 56th Grand American clay target carnival.

The 100-target event, with some 2,200 marksmen firing from anywhere from 18 to 27 yards back of the traphouse, carried a first place prize of around $7,000 for the winner. Marksmen from every state in the union, and all of Canada's provinces, are in the fight for the crown.

A year ago 2,136 fired for the laurels and C. W. Brown of Dayton, an unheralded shooter, broke 79 from 19 yards to take the title.

If history repeats, it will be another unknown from nowhere who ascends trapshooting's throne late today, for no "name" shooter has ever won the big event.

In Thursday's preliminary grand, an exact replica of today's event, Arlen J. Kimmel, a 39-year-old steel company inspector from Valley View, Pa., came from nowhere to win and pick up some $7,000 in prize money.

In other divisions of the preliminary Helen Monk Delmonico, Miami, Fla., beautician, broke 94 of 100 to win the women's championship; Joseph Newmaster of Lebanon, Pa., grabbed the junior championship with 95, and R. J. Tobin of St. Lambert, Quebec, outshot the United States professionals with 95 from 20 yards to take the pro title.

Northeast — A few fishermen have taken advantage of ideal fishing conditions. Most lakes and streams are somewhat low but all are clear with the outlook fair to good for the coming week.

Central and south—Practically all streams are clear but somewhat lower than normal. Lakes also are clear and low with the outlook fair.

East central and southeast — Most streams are in perfect fishing condition, but few fishermen have been out. Lakes are clear and normal with the outlook fair to good.

Southwest—Almost ideal fishing conditions prevail in both lakes and streams. Outlook for the weekend remains fair.

Sandusky Bay and Bass Islands—Fishing has been fair to good in Sandusky Bay with sheepshead, perch and white bass being taken. Outlook for weekend is fair. Fishermen continue to take perch, walleyes and black bass in varying numbers in the Bass Island area. Weekend outlook is fair to good.

Rewarding The Unfit and Worthless

Doubtless most of us around here in our own county-wide community have heard frequently criticism and complaint about the amount of money spent on relief.

Far too many individuals have become so accustomed to drawing relief money and other help and the number continues to grow. That is what a great many people are thinking and saying. Investigation here, and in other localities, seems to show reports on this idea are confirmed to a big extent.

There are many who actually need some aid through public relief, especially where small children or disabled people are concerned. There is about as large a group, however, composed of able-bodied adults who have the idea that the public owes them a living without any effort on their own part toward economic independence.

Along this line of thought, we were interested recently to note what John Fischer of Harper's Magazine was recently quoted as writing. He said, "Our whole way of life is now based on the theory that only the mediocre and the ineffectual deserve to be especially cherished by society."

This writer holds the view that if an individual is stupid, lazy, spiritless and generally worthless enough, there is hardly anything that our society as a whole won't do for him. He thinks, apparently, that this is especially true if he comes from a long line of similarly worthless ancestors.

Fischer contends that when such a man actually has a job, "the union sees that he is never fired for anything short of the most outrageous sloppiness and shirking. When he doesn't, a relief check is always waiting. If he absent-mindedly begins more children than he can support, the state takes care of them. For good measure, we pay him with subsidized housing, free medical care, and the tender ministrations of social workers; and we entertain him lavishly with free television programs, many carefully tailored to his sluggish wits.

"His children become the darlings of the public schools. Here little Willie Jukes is taught 'life adjustment', including how to dance, play the clarinet, and drive a hot-rod but few teachers insist that he learn to read and spell properly because the effort might bruise his fragile soul."

The Fischer statements will make many people angry. And the reason he will make many people angry is a sad and ominous one—that what he says is becoming largely and increasingly true.

Lost in Mass of Mankind?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—If Daniel Boone were born again tomorrow, he'd die of claustrophobia before he even became a teenager.

He couldn't survive the eternal sameness of life that is a growing curse in a civilization becoming ever more crowded.

How crowded can one get? Well, I was told the other day of a psychiatrist who now makes his patients lie down on his couch in pairs and tell their troubles together. The doctor allows one of his ears to each patient.

The individual man is getting lost ever more deeply in the mass of mankind. The new fetish words are teamwork and togetherness.

Modern man's crying need is for some form of self-expression, some way to prove his own individuality, the thing that sets him apart from rock, stone, tree and, yes, even all his fellow men. He needs, in other words, to be different so that his treadmill days will know the spice of variety.

But how? It does no good to go about muttering under one's breath, "Day by day in every way I am growing more and more different." The situation calls for action.

Here are a few tips on how a poor worm can turn, if he dares to be different:

1. If your wife tells you, "Come, mouse, help me do the dishes," tell her flatly, "No, I'm tired of doing the dishes with you." After a little surprised argument, she will give in. Then you can go into the kitchen and do the dishes all by yourself.

2. Does the waiter at your lunchtime restaurant habitually keep you waiting for half an hour before asking your order? Remember, you don't have to take this kind of treatment sitting down. Bawl him out. Then stand up and wait.

3. Are you bored with getting the same old dunning letters from a loan company? Why not borrow from another firm? Then you can get the same old dunning letters over a different signature.

4. Do your children hog the television set and force you to watch "Lassie"? Well, put your foot down. Make them switch to "Rin-Tin-Tin." You'll be amazed what a subtle difference this makes in your life so subtle it may take you years even to be fully aware of it.

5. Change your daily habits. If you've been smoking a cigarette with only 20,000 tiny filters, switch to a brand with 20,001 tiny filters. One more small hole in your head can make a world of difference.

The foregoing rules offer any man the chance to change his ways and become a standout in the mob. But naturally, the question arises, how about women? Is there no way to make women more different?

Yes, there is, but they probably won't do it.

The best way for modern women to become more different, all experts agree, is for them to become less indifferent. That'll be the day.

The Watkins Decision

By George Sokolsky

Whereas he concurred with the majority of the Supreme Court in the Watkins decision, Justice Frankfurter apparently could not append his signature to the rather loose verbiage of the majority opinion as read by Chief Justice Warren and wrote his own, the very first sentence of which is the acme of sarcasm: "I deem it important to state what I understand to be the Court's holding."

When Congress delegated to the federal courts its authority to hold recalcitrant witnesses for contempt, it, in effect, placed itself under the jurisdiction of the courts. While this may have been a convenience, it was a risky thing to do because the court could pursue its own course, and under Chief Justice Warren it has.

The difference between a court trial and a congressional inquiry is that the function of a court is to determine whether an individual is guilty or not guilty; the function of a congressional committee is to gather information to be used ultimately in connection with legislation.

When a witness is asked by a congressional committee whether he is or has been a Communist, he is not being accused of a felony or a misdemeanor. He is asked to open the door to further information concerning the Soviet conspiracy for the conquest of the United States.

This may involve not only giving testimony regarding his own participation in party affairs, but also regarding other persons with whom he is familiar. Should it turn out that these persons were guilty of a felony or a misdemeanor, it is up to the law officers and the courts to pursue the matter further, the congressional committee not having further function in it.

What worried Justice Frankfurter, for instance, was not that the House Committee on Un-American Activities exceeded its authority but that the presentation of the case was cloudy. He said:

"...The actual scope of the inquiry that the committee was authorized to conduct and the relevance of the questions to that inquiry must be shown to have been luminous at the time when asked and not left, at best, in cloudiness. The circumstances of this case were wanting in these essentials."

That means that hereafter before each hearing a congressional committee will have to go through a ritual, the presiding officer reading a statement as to its authority to be followed by a statement as to the purpose of the particular hearing. It is to be presumed that such a ritualistic handling of the matter will avoid cloudiness and will provide the luminosity which Frankfurter regards as essential.

However, as the House Committee on Un-American Activities has been operating since 1928 and has before it hundreds of witnesses and has produced hundreds of reports, involving millions of words, there can be little doubt that those who are called before it have ample opportunity to discover for themselves why Congress appointed this committee, why appropriations are made for it and why it continues to find useful work to do.

Therefore for all but the illiterate, the matter is luminous or should be.

And if there is any cloudiness about it, such cloudiness would appear to engulf the newer members of the Supreme Court who may, in the past, have been too busy to study the record. There is no doubt in my mind but that Justice Frankfurter knows the record.

Justice Clark said, in this case, "...So long as the object of a legislative inquiry is legitimate and the questions propounded are pertinent thereto, it is not for the courts to interfere with the committee system of inquiry. To hold otherwise would be an infringement on the power given the Congress to inform itself, and thus a trespass upon the fundamental American principle of separation of powers."

Unfortunately, Congress itself asked the courts to act for it in contempt cases. As long as recalcitrant witness had to appear at the bar or one of the houses of Congress and defend themselves against a charge of contempt, the full authority rested with Congress where the Constitution put it and the separation of powers was safeguarded.

When Congress delegated this authority, it opened the way to the Watkins decision which, if it stands, can cripple the functions of Congress altogether.

For if Congress cannot interrogate citizens, it cannot obtain information; therefore it cannot legislate with a knowledge of the facts.

Among illustrious alumni of Ohio's Wittenberg College are Isaac K. Funk and Adam W. Wagnalls, co-founders of Funk and Wagnalls which is famous for its "Standard Dictionary".

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"LATE AGAIN!" she roared at her miserable mate, "and drunk in the bargain, I'll bet!" "You're wrong, my angel," protested the jittery hubby. "It's just that I got caught on the wrong bus."

"In your shape," she sniffed, "how did you be knowing it was the wrong bus?"

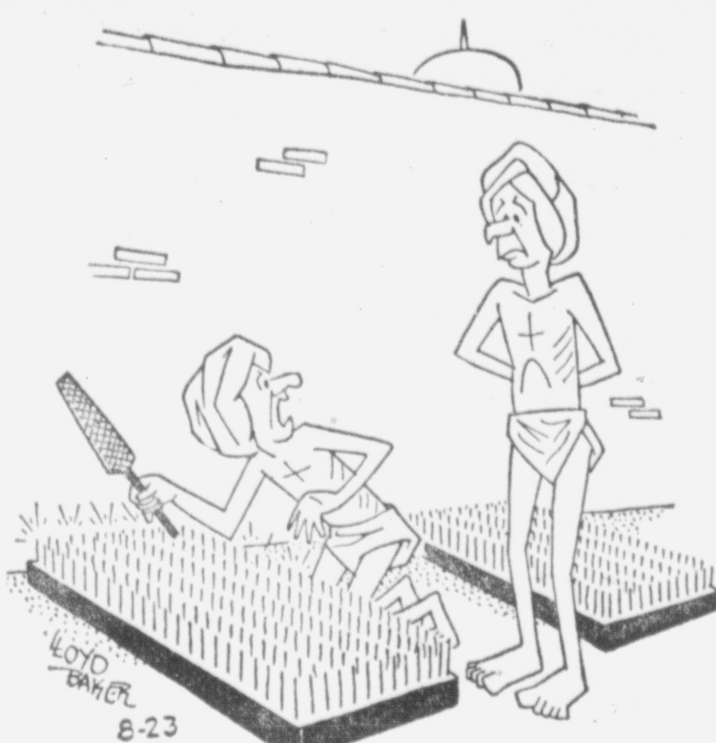

"I didn't at first," he explained nervously. "I got suspicious when it stood on one corner 40 minutes without moving. And I became dead sure when 10 people in a row climbed aboard and ordered hamburgers."

An already hard-pressed industrialist in Ohio ran up against a tough union organizer who demanded that he raise the pay of every employee five dollars a week. The harassed tycoon granted the raise, but announced at the same time he was decreeing a dollar fine for everyone who arrived late to work.

"And," he concluded triumphantly, "if you're not late five times a week, you're fired!"

Be Alert To Symptoms Of Tumor In Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CANCER ranks second only to accidents as the chief killer of children. Yet many parents seldom think of cancer as a menace to their youngsters. Chickenpox, measles and the like are of more concern.

To a certain extent, that's as it should be. I don't want you to develop a phobia about cancer. As Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society, once put it, "Cancer should be in your mind, not on your mind."

On the Safe Side
Yet you must know what to look for in order to be on the safe side.

Many types of brain tumors are encountered in children as often as in adults and one specific type is found only in children. While tumors of the brain may produce a variety of symptoms, some of the most common are these:

1. Interference with muscular coordination. The hands and arms might be affected, causing a youngster to drop things frequently. Perhaps he may stagger or be unable to walk straight and even fall occasionally.

2. Vision troubles. His field of vision may be narrowed so much that he can see only the object upon which his eyes are focused. Perhaps his vision will be blurred or maybe he will complain of seeing double.

3. Headache. In some cases, headache is the only indication of a brain tumor. If a tumor is causing the trouble, the headache may be very slight at the outset of the difficulty, but probably will develop in intensity until it is severe and long-lasting.

4. Illness. Even without being nauseous, a patient might vomit violently. Generally, this action is abrupt and without any warning.

Frequent Spells
5. Drowsiness and loss of alertness. Frequent spells of drowsiness and a sort of mental dullness might strike the child. Seizures varying in intensity from being barely noticeable to loss of consciousness may develop. Sometimes convulsions must result.

Of course, I must remind you again, that these symptoms do not necessarily mean that a brain tumor is developing. They may be caused by something entirely unrelated.

However, as I have so often stressed in the past, any such abnormal occurrence is a signal to see your doctor. Don't take any chances.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
M.A.: Is the frog test for pregnancy reliable?

Answer: Yes; this test is quite reliable in most instances and usually faster than the normal test.

Another factor about this test is that the frog does not have to be destroyed after the test has been completed.

Nuclear Power in Water Said To Be Tremendous

By RENNIE TAYLOR

Associated Press Science Reporter
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If all the oceans were gasoline, they could supply only a tiny fraction of the energy that will be available in the age of thermonuclear power, says a leading atomic scientist.

Each gallon of water on earth contains enough heavy hydrogen to produce, theoretically, the amount of energy in 265 gallons of gasoline. This would supply the world's power requirements for a trillion years.

And there would be plenty of water left over, because if all this heavy hydrogen were extracted from the seas and burned in reactors, the volume of the oceans would be reduced only by one six-thousandth of present size.

These figures were given by Dr. Herbert York, director of the University of California's Livermore Laboratory in an address Wednesday night to the Western electronics show and convention. The Livermore Laboratory is the place where much ultra-secret work is being done on the hydrogen bomb and related nuclear problems.

Researchers are making progress toward the age of nuclear fusion but they still have a long way to go before achieving that goal, Dr. York said.

The atom scientist listed many complicated problems which have arisen as researchers have attempted to use magnetic and electrical force to produce the 100-million degree temperatures necessary for thermonuclear reactions.

In hydrogen bombs this heat is supplied by ordinary atom bombs. But in the production of power for peaceful uses a steady long-lasting method of producing this amount of heat will be needed.

Asked as to the prospects of thermonuclear power before the year 2000, the scientist said it was an even bet.

Rewarding The Unfit and Worthless

Doubtless most of us around here in our own county-wide community have heard frequently criticism and complaint about the amount of money spent on relief.

Far too many individuals have become so accustomed to drawing relief money and other help and the number continues to grow. That is what a great many people are thinking and saying. Investigation here, and in other localities, seems to show reports on this idea are confirmed to a big extent.

There are many who actually need some aid through public relief, especially where small children or disabled people are concerned. There is about as large a group, however, composed of able-bodied adults who have the idea that the public owes them a living without any effort on their own part toward economic independence.

Along this line of thought, we were interested recently to note what John Fischer of Harper's Magazine was recently quoted as writing. He said, "Our whole way of life is now based on the theory that only the mediocre and the ineffectual deserve to be especially cherished by society."

This writer holds the view that if an individual is stupid, lazy, spiritless and generally worthless enough, there is hardly anything that our society as a whole won't do for him. He thinks, apparently, that this is especially true if he comes from a long line of similarly worthless ancestors.

Fischer contends that when such a man actually has a job, "the union sees that he is never fired for anything short of the most outrageous sloppiness and shirking. When he doesn't, a relief check is always waiting. If he absent-mindedly begets more children than he can support, the state takes care of them. For good measure, we ply him with subsidized housing, free medical care, and the tender ministrations of social workers; and we entertain him lavishly with free television programs, many carefully tailored to his sluggish wits.

"His children become the darlings of the public schools. Here little Willie Jukes is taught 'life adjustment', including how to dance, play the clarinet, and drive a hot-rod-but few teachers insist that he learn to read and spell properly because the effort might bruise his fragile soul."

The Fischer statements will make many people angry. And the reason he will make them angry is a sad and ominous one—that what he says is becoming largely and increasingly true.

Lost in Mass of Mankind?

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — If Daniel Boone were born again tomorrow, he'd die of claustrophobia before he even became a teenager.

He couldn't survive the eternal sameness of life that is a growing curse in a civilization becoming ever more crowded.

How crowded can one get? Well, I was told the other day of a psychiatrist who now makes his patients lie down on his couch in pairs and tell their troubles together. The doctor allows one of his ears to each patient.

The individual man is getting lost ever more deeply in the mass of mankind. The new fetish words are teamwork and togetherness.

Modern man's crying need is for some form of self-expression, some way to prove his own individuality, the thing that sets him apart from rock, stone, tree and, yes, even all his fellow men.

He needs, in other words, to be different so that his treadmill days will know the spice of variety.

But how? It does no good to go about muttering under one's breath, "Day by day in every way I am growing more and more different." The situation calls for action.

Here are a few tips on how a poor worm can turn, if he dares to be different:

1. If your wife tells you, "Come, mouse, help me do the dishes," tell her flatly, "No, I'm tired of doing the dishes with you." After a little surprised argument, she will give in. Then you can go into the kitchen and do the dishes all by yourself.

2. Does the waiter at your lunchtime restaurant habitually keep you waiting for half an hour before asking your order? Remember, you don't have to take this kind of treatment sitting down. Bawl him out. Then stand up and wait.

3. Are you bored with getting the same old dunning letters from a loan company? Why not borrow from another firm? Then you can get the same old dunning letters over a different signature.

4. Do your children hog the television set and force you to watch "Lassie"? Well, put your foot down. Make them switch to "Rin-Tin-Tin." You'll be amazed what a subtle difference this makes in your life so subtle it may take you years even to be fully aware of it.

5. Change your daily habits. If you've been smoking a cigarette with only 20,000 tiny filters, switch to a brand with 20,001 tiny filters. One more small hole in your head can make a world of difference.

The foregoing rules offer any man the chance to change his ways and become a standout in the mob. But naturally, the question arises, how about women? Is there no way to make women more different?

Yes, there is, but they probably won't do it.

The best way for modern women to become more different, all experts agree, is for them to become less indifferent. That'll be the day.

The Watkins Decision

By George Sokolsky

Whereas he concurred with the majority of the Supreme Court in the Watkins decision, Justice Frankfurter apparently could not append his signature to the rather loose verbiage of the majority opinion as read by Chief Justice Warren and wrote his own, the very first sentence of which is the acme of sarcasm: "I deem it important to state what I understand to be the Court's holding."

When Congress delegated to the federal courts its authority to hold recalcitrant witnesses for contempt, it, in effect, placed itself under the jurisdiction of the courts. While this may have been a convenience, it was a risky thing to do because the court could pursue its own course, and under Chief Justice Warren it has.

The difference between a court trial and a congressional inquiry is that the function of a court is to determine whether an individual is guilty or not guilty; the function of a congressional committee is to gather information to be used ultimately in connection with legislation.

When a witness is asked by a congressional committee whether he is or has been a Communist, he is not being accused of a felony or a misdemeanor. He is asked to open the door to further information concerning the Soviet conspiracy for the conquest of the United States.

This may involve not only giving testimony regarding his own participation in party affairs, but also regarding other persons with whom he is familiar. Should it turn out that these persons were guilty of a felony or a misdemeanor, it is up to the law officers and the courts to pursue the matter further, the congressional committee not having further function in it.

What worried Justice Frankfurter, for instance, was not that the House Committee on Un-American Activities exceeded its authority but that the presentation of the case was cloudy. He said:

"... The actual scope of the

That means that hereafter before each hearing a congressional committee will have to go through a ritual, the presiding officer reading a statement as to its authority to be followed by a statement as to the purpose of the particular hearing. It is to be presumed that such a ritualistic handling of the matter will avoid cloudiness and will provide the luminosity which Frankfurter regards as essential.

However, as the House Committee on Un-American Activities has been operating since 1928 and has before it hundreds of witnesses and has produced hundreds of reports, involving millions of words, there can be little doubt that those who are called before it have ample opportunity to discover for themselves why Congress appointed this committee, why appropriations are made for it and why it continues to find useful work to do.

Therefore for all but the illiterate, the matter is luminous or should be.

And if there is any cloudiness about it, such cloudiness would appear to engulf the newer members of the Supreme Court who may, in the past, have been too busy to study the record. There is no doubt in my mind but that Justice Frankfurter knows the record.

Justice Clark said, in this case, "... So long as the object of a legislative inquiry is legitimate and the questions propounded are pertinent thereto, it is not for the courts to interfere with the committee system of inquiry. To hold otherwise would be an infringement on the power given the Congress to inform itself, and thus a trespass upon the fundamental American principle of separation of powers."

Unfortunately, Congress itself asked the courts to act for it in contempt cases. As long as recalcitrant witness had to appear at the bar or one of the houses of Congress and defend themselves against a charge of contempt, the full authority rested with Congress where the Constitution put it and the separation of powers was safeguarded.

When Congress delegated this authority, it opened the way to the Watkins decision which, if it stands, can cripple the functions of Congress altogether.

For if Congress cannot interrogate citizens, it cannot obtain information; therefore it cannot legislate with a knowledge of the facts.

Among illustrious alumni of Ohio's Wittenberg College are Isaac K. Funk and Adam W. Wagnalls, co-founders of Funk and Wagnalls which is famous for its "Standard Dictionary".

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"LATE AGAIN!" she roared at her miserable mate, "and drunk in the bargain, I'll bet!" "You're wrong, my angel," protested the jittery hubby. "It's just that I got caught on the wrong bus."

"In your shape," she sniffed, "how did you be knowing it was the wrong bus?"

"I didn't at first," he explained nervously. "I got suspicious when it stood on one corner 40 minutes without moving. And I became dead sure when 10 people in a row climbed aboard and ordered hamburgers."

An already hard-pressed industrialist in Ohio ran up against a tough union organizer who demanded that he raise the pay of every employee five dollars a week. The harassed tycoon granted the raise, but announced at the same time he was decreeing a dollar fine for everyone who arrived late to work.

"And," he concluded triumphantly, "if you're not late five times a week, you're fired!"

Be Alert To Symptoms Of Tumor In Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CANCER ranks second only to accidents as the chief killer of children. Yet many parents seldom think of cancer as a menace to their youngsters. Chickenpox, measles and the like are of more concern.

To a certain extent, that's as it should be. I don't want you to develop a phobia about cancer. As Dr. Charles S. Cameron, medical and scientific director of the American Cancer Society, once put it, "Cancer should be in your mind, not on your mind."

On the Safe Side

Yet you must know what to look for in order to be on the safe side.

Many types of brain tumors are encountered in children as often as in adults and one specific type is found only in children. While tumors of the brain may produce a variety of symptoms, some of the most common are these:

1. Interference with muscular coordination. The hands and arms might be affected, causing a youngster to drop things frequently. Perhaps he may stagger, be unable to walk straight and even fall occasionally.

Field of Vision

2. Vision troubles. His field of vision may be narrowed so much that he can see only the object upon which his eyes are focused. Perhaps his vision will be blurred or maybe he will complain of seeing double.

3. Headache. In some cases, headache is the only indication of a brain tumor. If a tumor is causing the trouble, the headache may be very slight at the outset of the difficulty, but probably will develop in intensity until it is severe and long-lasting.

4. Illness. Even without being nauseous, a patient might vomit violently. Generally, this action is abrupt and without any warning.

Frequent Spells

5. Drowsiness and loss of alertness. Frequent spells of drowsiness and a sort of mental dullness might strike the child. Seizures varying in intensity from being barely noticeable to loss of consciousness may develop. Sometimes convulsions might result.

Of course, I must remind you again, that these symptoms do not necessarily mean that a brain tumor is developing. They may be caused by something entirely unrelated.

However, as I have so often stressed in the past, any such abnormal occurrence is a signal to see your doctor. Don't take any chances.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

M. A.: Is the frog test for pregnancy reliable?

Answer: Yes; this test is quite reliable in most instances and usually faster than the normal rabbit test.

Another factor about this test is that the frog does not have to be destroyed after the test has been completed.

Nuclear Power in Water Said To Be Tremendous

By RENNIE TAYLOR

Associated Press Science Reporter
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If all the oceans were gasoline, they could supply only a tiny fraction of the energy that will be available in the age of thermonuclear power, says a leading atomic scientist.

Each gallon of water on earth contains enough heavy hydrogen to produce, theoretically, the amount of energy in 265 gallons of gasoline. This would supply the world's power requirements for a trillion years.

And there would be plenty of water left over, because if all this heavy hydrogen were extracted from the seas and burned in reactors, the volume of the oceans would be reduced only by one six-thousandth of present size.

These figures were given by Dr. Herbert York, director of the University of California's Livermore Laboratory in an address Wednesday night to the Western electronics show and convention. The Livermore Laboratory is the place where much ultra-secret work is being done on the hydrogen bomb and related nuclear problems.

Researchers are making progress toward the age of nuclear fusion but they still have a long way to go before achieving that goal, Dr. York said.

The atom scientist listed many complicated problems which have arisen as researchers have attempted to use magnetic and electrical force to produce the 100-million degree temperatures necessary for thermonuclear reactions.

In hydrogen bombs this heat is supplied by ordinary atom bombs. But in the production of power for peaceful uses a steady long-lasting method of producing this amount of heat will be needed.

Asked as to the prospects of thermonuclear power before the year 2000, the scientist said it was an even bet.

DeHavilland-Fontaine Feud Recounted by Actress Olivia

HOLLYWOOD — Olivia de Havilland's side of the famed sisterly feud between her and Joan Fontaine was told today for the first time.

Relaxing in her flower-decked Beverly Hills Hotel suite, the two-time Oscar winner declared a recent event in France prompted her to tell the story. Olivia lives in Paris with her husband Pierre Galante and her two children, and came here to star with Alan Ladd in "The Proud Rebel" for Samuel Goldwyn Jr.

"I was attending a party," she recounted, "and a woman asked me about the feud, saying, 'Wasn't it awful that your sister wouldn't shake hands with you?' I said, 'Oh, no, it was the other way around!'"

So she decided to get the story out and be done with it. The major outbreak occurred after Olivia's marriage to novelist Marcus Goodrich, she related.

"Joan is very bright and sharp and has a wit that can be cutting," the actress said. "She said some things about Marcus that hurt me deeply. She was aware there was an estrangement between us."

In 1947, Olivia was up for her first Academy Award for "To Each His Own." She saw on the program that Joan was on the program as a previous winner. She knew she had a chance to win and that she might meet Joan backstage. She asked her press agent to protect her against such a meeting.

The press agent didn't, she said. Olivia was ushered through a door toward a battery of photographers. Joan stood by the entrance. Olivia turned away from her, and one lucky photog got the shot.

The backstage snub hit the headlines, and the feud of the two famous sisters became part of the Hollywood legend.

How did they make up?

"I swore that I would never reconcile with Joan until she apologized," Olivia declared. "But when I returned to Hollywood after my separation from Marcus, it seemed silly to demand an apology then."

So the two sisters became friends again.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Fayette County and this immediate part of Ohio generally are in more favorable position for a bumper soybean crop and a good corn crop than any place I know, with the possible exception of western Illinois and Missouri.

The early corn, where it was not drowned out by heavy rains soon after planting, will be exceptionally good, and while no estimates have been made by extension agent W. W. Montgomery, as to the average yield of corn in the county this year, it is expected to reach well up toward averages of the last three years—69.7 bushels to the acre 1954, 65 bushels in 1955 and 67.5 in 1956.

Some fields in the country will reach around 100 bushels to the acre, and some of the late planted corn will not show anything like an average yield, reports indicate.

Not only is the early planted corn well cared, but the number of stalks bearing two ears is surprisingly large.

Recently in much of the corn-growing area in Virginia, I saw thousands of acres of the grain, much of it without ears, simply drying up in the worst drought to occur in that area for a great many years.

One farmer told me that no rain of consequence had fallen for 85 days. Gardens and other crops had simply dried up.

In this area rainfall has been around normal, although in northern Ohio rainfall was so heavy earlier in the season that a great deal of the corn suffered, and the average will be far below normal. Soybeans also were hard hit in that area.

Soybeans in this immediate part of Ohio never appeared to better advantage than right now.

Smithville Student Gets Medical Boost

COLUMBUS (AP)—William A. Hutchison of Smithville, Wayne County, has been selected to receive the ninth annual Ohio State Medical Assn. rural medical scholarship valued at $2,000.

He will receive $500 a year for use at medical school, said Dr. Robert S. Martin, association president. Hutchison, who wants to become a country doctor, plans to enter Western Reserve University School of Medicine this fall.

CHICAGO (AP)—Henry J. Kondrat of Cleveland was elected to the Supreme Board of Directors of the Knights of Columbus Wednesday at the Roman Catholic organization's convention here.

Ravenna and Ashland, Ohio, together produce about 80 per cent of the world's toy balloons.

Wanderer

FOUND sitting on a curb at 2 a.m., clad only in shorts, an unidentified, 2-year-old boy sleeps peacefully in the Covina, Calif., police station. Police believed he wandered away from home while his parents slept. Said the sergeant, "Come morning and we'll have an anxious mother frantically calling us." (International) with every indication that the yield will be one of the best on record.

Last year the average yield of soybeans in the county was 26.5 bushels. In 1955 the average was 25.5 bushels and last year it was 27 bushels.

30 YEARS AGO

Work of installing the first traffic lights in the city was under way, with lights being erected at Court and Main, Court and Fayette and Court and North Sts., at a cost of $1,500 to $1,800.

East St. paving was completed from Short St. to Washington Ave. Channing Vlerghome, New Holland grain dealer, died at 62 years.

Council was considering changes in traffic code to limit parking to two hours in the business part of the city.

Rain spoiled races Thursday and Friday at the Fayette County Fair. Mrs. L. M. McFadden died at age of 53 years.

The corn borer had reached northern Madison County in its move southward from the shores of Lake Erie, and a quarantine was to be placed in effect to halt it.

MARCUS POST OFFICE

"Marcus" probably was the shortest-lived post office in Fayette County.

It was located in a grocery operated by John A. Stookey, at Fairview Station, on what was then the C.H. & D. Railroad, seven miles southeast of Washington C. H.

Stookey was the only post master during the lifetime of the Marcus office, which lasted from about 1896 until 1902, or a matter of some six years.

CHESTNUT BLIGHT

Recently while motoring in Southern Ohio and through the Appalachian mountains, I saw a few dead chestnut trees still standing, gaunt reminders of the days when the hill areas were covered with native chestnut trees and their fruits were gathered as a real delicacy.

Back in the 'eighties' the chestnut blight was brought into America in a shipment of nursery stock, but it was not until 1904 that it was recognized as spreading in the New York Zoological Park.

The blight then moved slowly through New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and other states, killing all of the native chestnut trees, and continued to spread throughout the nation until by 1940 no live chestnut trees were left.

It was estimated the blight caused 100 million dollars damage in wiping out the trees.

Some 35 or 40 years ago Congress appropriated the huge sum of $10,000 to fight the blight. Later a blight-resisting type of tree was developed.

Until recent years the wood of the chestnut trees had been used for furniture, paneling in homes and business places, and the wormholed wood has been much in demand.

A good example of this type of chestnut paneling may be seen in the Washington Coffee Shop, which was finished in the wormholed chestnut lumber.

June Lockhart Changed by TV

Talented Actress Says She's a Comic, Too

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television has changed June Lockhart into somebody else.

The busy young dramatic star is, however, unworried and unscarred by her split-level self.

"TV just seems to see something in me that comes through when I'm not necessarily myself," she explains.

"It's a certain side of me, I guess—if you don't know my other side, the baggy pants comic side."

Miss Lockhart, who has roundly wide blue eyes and a flair for chic couture when herself, winds up in approximately four out of every five of her television dramatic appearances cast as a flat-heeled, middle-aged matron or spinster with a sad problem.

But when she comes to Broadway or appears on the stock stage, June is invariably the ingenue of sleek comedy. Rarely do her acting personalities meet.

On a recent air appearance she managed to escape defeat by portrayal.

"One of my friends came to me afterwards and said, 'Gee, I didn't know you were such a comedienne,'" she relates without rancor.

Immediately afterwards, she was back on U.S. Steel's drama hour as a bewildered schoolteacher. She has more battered portrayals in the immediate future.

"Most actresses, when offered an over-40, dull and drab role, shudder and say 'Not for me,'" says June who comes of a theater family.

"I just say 'how much are you paying?' and do it."

Copter Pilot Helps Boys Back Up Story

KERMAN, Calif. (AP)—A year ago a National Guard helicopter pilot—Capt. Paul J. Flotron of Glendale—set his whirlybird down on the farm of Louis Kastorff.

Flotron had lost his way and was low on fuel.

The Kastorffs fed the airman, gave him maps and helped him obtain gas.

But friends of the three Kastorff boys wouldn't believe a helicopter had descended on their farm.

Wednesday Flotron made a return call.

This time the kids took plenty of pictures.

Paralysis Fails To Slow Pop Singer's Enthusiasm

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Do I pray? Sure But the best prayer is action I think. And I'm going to continue working as hard as I can until I'm well again."

This is the vow of handsome, dark-haired Ronnie Deauville, a year ago, he had a thriving career as a pop singer. Today he is confined to a wheel chair.

But he hasn't given up hopes of a career. "I'm singing better than ever," he said, and he demonstrated his talents on Art Linkletter's TV show recently.

Life was a breeze for Ronnie until the morning of Oct. 2, 1956. He had built up a name for himself as a vocalist with Tommy Dorsey, Glen Gray, Tex Beneke and Ray Anthony. He signed with Mercury Records and was making a go of it as a single. He had a lively wife, Pat, and four children.

He was driving to a recording date. An early morning shower had dampened Western Avenue. A couple of kids on their way to school were racing their car. The car skidded and crashed head-on into Ronnie's car.

At first the doctor said Ronnie had a severe whiplash. The singer couldn't move his head.

A few days later, he couldn't move his legs. Paralysis seemed to be creeping up on him. Unable to communicate with hospital attendants, he was about to give up the great struggle to breathe when his wife appeared and had him rushed to an iron lung.

He was in the lung for five months. That gave him plenty of time to think.

"I tried to ponder why this had happened to me," he said.

"Strange as it may sound, I concluded that it probably was a good thing. If it wasn't this, it might have been something even worse."

"Now I've had a chance to realize how lucky I am. I know even more what a wonderful wife I have, and I've gotten acquainted with my family. And I think I've gotten better acquainted with God."

The cause of Ronnie's paralysis has never been determined, but the symptoms are so close to polio that it has been so classified.

"With God's help, I'll make it," he declared. "One of the things that has helped me is the good wishes of people I don't even know. One woman who had had 25 operations and faced another wrote me to keep up my spirit. Imagine!"

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Fayette County and this immediate part of Ohio generally are in more favorable position for a bumper soybean crop and a good corn crop than any place I know, with the possible exception of western Illinois and Missouri.

The early corn, where it was not drowned out by heavy rains soon after planting, will be exceptionally good, and while no estimates have been made by extension agent W. W. Montgomery, as to the average yield of corn in the county this year, it is expected to reach well up toward averages of the last three years—69.7 bushels to the acre 1954, 65 bushels in 1955 and 67.5 in 1956.

Some fields in the country will reach around 100 bushels to the acre, and some of the late planted corn will not show anything like an average yield, reports indicate.

Not only is the early planted corn well cared, but the number of stalks bearing two ears is surprisingly large.

Recently in much of the corn-growing area in Virginia, I saw thousands of acres of the grain, much of it without ears, simply drying up in the worst drought to occur in that area for a great many years.

One farmer told me that no rain of consequence had fallen for 85 days. Gardens and other crops had simply dried up.

In this area rainfall has been around normal, although in northern Ohio rainfall was so heavy earlier in the season that a great deal of the corn suffered, and the average will be far below normal. Soybeans also were hard hit in that area.

Soybeans in this immediate part of Ohio never appeared to better advantage than right now.

Smithville Student Gets Medical Boost

COLUMBUS (AP)—William A. Hutchison of Smithville, Wayne County, has been selected to receive the ninth annual Ohio State Medical Assn. rural medical scholarship valued at $2,000.

He will receive $500 a year for use at medical school, said Dr. Robert S. Martin, association president. Hutchison, who wants to become a country doctor, plans to enter Western Reserve University School of Medicine this fall.

June Lockhart Changed by TV

Talented Actress Says She's a Comic, Too

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television has changed June Lockhart into somebody else.

The busy young dramatic star is, however, unworried and unscarred by her split-level self.

"TV just seems to see something in me that comes through when I'm not necessarily myself," she explains.

"It's a certain side of me. I guess—if you don't know my other side, the baggy pants comic side."

Miss Lockhart, who has roundly wide blue eyes and a flair for chic couture when herself, winds up in approximately four out of every five of her television dramatic appearances cast as a flat-heeled, middle-aged matron or spinster with a sad problem.

But when she comes to Broadway or appears on the stock stage, June is invariably the ingenue of sleek comedy. Rarely do her acting personalities meet.

On a recent air appearance she managed to escape downbeat portrayal.

"One of my friends came to me afterwards and said, 'Gee, I didn't know you were such a comedienne,'" she relates without rancor.

Immediately afterwards, she was back on U.S. Steel's drama hour as a bewildered schoolteacher. She has more battered portrayals in the immediate future.

"Most actresses, when offered an over-40, dull and drab role, shudder and say 'Not for me,'" says June who comes of a theater family.

"I just say 'how much are you paying?' and do it."

Copter Pilot Helps Boys Back Up Story

KERMAN, Calif. (AP)—A year ago a National Guard helicopter pilot—Capt. Paul J. Flotron of Glendale—set his whirlybird down on the farm of Louis Kastorff.

Foltron had lost his way and was low on fuel.

The Kastorffs fed the airman, gave him maps and helped him obtain gas.

But friends of the three Kastorff boys wouldn't believe a helicopter had descended on their farm.

Wednesday Flotron made a return call.

This time the kids took plenty of pictures.

Paralysis Fails To Slow Pop Singer's Enthusiasm

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"Do I pray? Sure But the best prayer is action. I think. And I'm going to continue working as hard as I can until I'm well again."

This is the vow of handsome, dark-haired Ronnie Deauville, a year ago, he had a thriving career as a pop singer. Today he is confined to a wheel chair.

But he hasn't given up hopes of a career. "I'm singing better than ever," he said, and he demonstrated his talents on Art Linkletter's TV show recently.

Life was a breeze for Ronnie until the morning of Oct. 2, 1956. He had built up a name for himself as a vocalist with Tommy Dorsey, Glen Gray, Tex Beneke and Ray Anthony. He signed with Mercury Records and was making a go of it as a single. He had a lively wife, Pat, and four children.

He was driving to a recording date. An early morning shower had dampened Western Avenue.

A couple of kids on their way to school were racing their car. The car skidded and crashed head-on into Ronnie's car.

At first the doctor said Ronnie had a severe whiplash. The singer couldn't move his head.

A few days later, he couldn't move his legs. Paralysis seemed to be creeping up on him. Unable to communicate with hospital attendants, he was about to give up the great struggle to breathe when his wife appeared and had him rushed to an iron lung.

He was in the lung for five months. That gave him plenty of time to think.

"I tried to ponder why this had happened to me," he said.

"Strange as it may sound, I concluded that it probably was a good thing. If it wasn't this, it might have been something even worse."

"Now I've had a chance to realize how lucky I am. I know even more what a wonderful wife I have, and I've gotten acquainted with my family. And I think I've gotten better acquainted with God."

"With God's help, I'll make it," he declared.

"One of the things that has helped me is the good wishes of people I don't even know. One woman who had had 25 operations and faced another wrote me to keep up my spirit. Imagine!"

ASSERTING "I have no intention of seeking any federal office while serving as governor," Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California announced in San Francisco that he will seek a second term next year. (International)

Accent Placed On Youth in Nation's Stores

Back-to-School Idea
Gets Big Play; Major
Rush Due Next Week

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK — The accent is on youth in the nation's stores today.

Back-to-school promotions are aimed at a record 43,135,000 enrolling in schools and colleges.
This means 1 1/4 million more need outfitting this year than last.

First response has ranged from spotty to excellent. Most stores look for the big rush this coming week.

ADS stress the new in school needs, like: "A modern pen for the progressive student" and "Pack up your bubbles (a liquid laundry detergent) and carry them off to school in a plastic bottle."

Or they play up the standbys of other days, like: "Our poplin auto coat" reminiscent of the first horseless carriages, second hand raccoon coats that saw their first time round in the 20s, and middy blouses.

The National Assn. of Men's Apparel Clubs believes that boys are getting more clothes conscious. And a store in the Bronx section of New York City advertises Ivy League style suits for grade school boys.

The Boys' Apparel Buyers Assn.
gleefully reports that in 1955 the nose counters found 5,682,000 boys in the 15 to 18 age group and look for 8,772,000 in that group in 1956 — all busily outgrowing their old clothes.

The college trade is proving lucrative. Some 3 1/2 million students — up 206,000 this year, according to the U.S. education commissioner — are out shopping.

One of New York's top men's stores is enlarging its university shop.

Another is stressing its university model in its suit ads. A New York department store, offering an unabridged dictionary of college fashion, stresses motor scooter jackets, students' linen handkerchiefs strictly distinguished as to gender, and assures one and all that red is the favorite evening color for dancing coeds.

The button down dorm shirts in crimson cotton challis, waltz night gowns, pinafore robes and baby doll pants are advertised for girls' school.

One store thinks no college man should start back without a 100 per cent washable synthetic neck-tie.

A New York hardware store is out for the back-to-school trade with lamps, clocks, waste baskets and a big world atlas.

One specialty store makes a sentimental appeal: "Your grandfather and grandmother satisfied their back-to-school needs here."

The LaChoy Chinese Foods Co. at Archbold, Ohio, produces more Chinese foods than anywhere else on earth including China.

Silent William Girard Due To Begin Talking Monday

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of articles giving the background to the Japanese trial of Illinois GI William Girard.

By GENE KRAMER
CAMP DREW, Japan — "I ain't got no comment. Anything
I have to say, I'll say in court."

Repeating those words over and over, a young American soldier for seven months has held his tongue about the fantastic jam he is in.

Starting Monday, William S.
Girard gets his day in court.
That's when he goes on trial before three Japanese judges on charges of killing a Japanese woman brass-pickier on a firing range.

Girard, 22, hopes he will be acquitted or get a suspended sentence on his claim that the Jan.
30 shooting was an accident while he was on guard duty.

Apart from the evidence, the slightly built, brown-haired Illinois soldier has one built-in argument in his defense — he can say he could not possibly kill a Japanese except by sheer accident, for he likes Japanese people and married a Japanese girl last month.

Prosecutors will try to show Girard was irresponsible, negligent and contemptuous of human life — especially Japanese — in pulling the trigger. But they may be hard-pressed to find anything in the soldier's humble Florida and Illinois upbringing to offset his demonstrated liking for Japanese.

After quitting school in his freshman year at Streater (Ill.)
High, Girard tried several jobs, working for 45 days at the Owens-Illinois Glass Co. plant shortly before enlisting in 1953.

He liked the Army, which assigned him as a truck driver, and decided to make it his career.
Until he went AWOL this month to drink beer outside the camp, the shooting was the only blemish on an otherwise good conduct record.

He arrived in Japan in 1955, re-enlisted in 1956, and hopes to do so again this fall unless his trial interferes. As a specialist third class, he earns $140 a month.

For nearly two years, his constant companion has been Haru Sueyama, a short, freckled one-time bar waitress six years older than himself. They were married last month.

"This is going to be my hobby for the rest of my life," Girard once said, caressing the girl, whom he nicknamed "Candy" because she likes sweets.

Since Girard came under investigation, she has loyally visited him every night in camp, often bringing him Japanese food which he likes.

"Three years ago, I started going out with GIs and decided to disconnect myself from my past, which I'm not very proud of,
working in bars here and there and all over since my folks died," Candy recalled. "When I met Girard, he used to drink quite heavily and no one wanted to have much to do with him. I forced him to straighten out, even sold my belongings once to support him when he spent all his money. Now he hardly ever touches a drop."

Japanese villagers of Kagohara, Girard's camp, know and like the couple, and credit Candy with remaking Girard into "a good man."

Throughout his tribulations, Girard has been loyal to his brother Louis, 38, head of the Girard family in Illinois since the illnesses of his late father and his mother.

It was Louis who persuaded William to deny Japanese jurisdiction in his case and allow State side lawyers to wage a six-week court battle in Washington against the U.S. agreement to a Japanese trial.

"As you know, I was following the orders of my brother . . . How I felt about it didn't make any difference," William said afterward.

Girard has taken issue with his brother on two other matters . . .
Louis' original opposition to his marriage plans and criticism of Japanese, including use of the word "Jap."

"My brother has never been in Japan and he doesn't think the way I do," William says.

Housewife of Colonial Days Really Had an Endless Task

By ANNETTE DAVIS
WASHINGTON — If you've ever thought of housekeeping as an endless chore, you should visit the recently opened exhibit depicting everyday life in early America at the Smithsonian Institution.

In the four-room clapboard house which was erected in the Natural History Museum you can get a good idea of what the housewife did in colonial days. The house, built in 1695, was given to the Smithsonian by Dr. and Mrs.
Arthur M. Greenwood who rescued it from destruction in 1927 in EVER-ETT, Mass. Until recently it has served as a library on the Greenwood property in Marlboro, Mass.

Now it is furnished just as it would have been in the days when the colonists occupied it.

There's a cauldron hanging in the fireplace as a reminder that quick meals are today's innovation. Soups, stews and chowders, the main fare of the day, simmered for hours. Usually the meats had already been smoked or salted and pickled in order to preserve them. For seasoning, the housewife added herbs which she had steeped in pottery jars.

There were no bakeries in the rural districts so baking was an other necessity. The colonial housewife baked in a brick oven built into the fireplace, without the help of a thermostat. She also cultivated her own yeast.

One of her most important jobs was doing out the family ration of sugar. Sugar was a great luxury and was purchased in the store in loaves. One 10 pound loaf was supposed to last a family a year. The housewife carefully cut the loaves into lumps for table use with a large iron sugar breaker.

But one task may have been simpler than it is today. There was no elaborate table setting. China was scarce so food was served in large wooden platters or in shallow pans. Forks, too, were rare and most of the food was eaten with spoons. If anything had to be cut at the table, the husband pulled out his pocketknife.

In addition to cooking, baking and sewing, the colonial housewife made her own soap, molded candles and dyed cloth before stitching it into garments. Most of this activity was carried on in the kitchen which served as an all-purpose family room.

nel.

No vaccine for private physicians to give patients has arrived

zel knows.

Tot Shuns X-ray, Has Own Method

MIDDLETOWN — Eighteen-month-old Jan Jefferies wants no part of that X-ray business. She can take care of her ailments in her own manner.

Jan swallowed the winding key of her musical teddy bear. She began gasping for breath and her mother, Mrs. Kenneth Jefferies, rushed her to a hospital where physicians ordered immediate X-rays.

But Jan had different ideas. She set up a terrific howl and squirmed so much that the X-rays couldn't be taken.

In the midst of her violent protests, Jan started to cough. She coughed up the key and went home happy and without having had any X-rays.

P&G Taps Morgens To Replace McElroy

CINCINNATI — Howard J.
Morgens Jr. was named Thursday
as president of Procter & Gamble Co., to succeed Neil McElroy, new secretary of defense.

Morgens, 46, has been executive vice president in charge of the firm's operations in the United States since 1954. He has been with P&G since 1933.

His appointment as president will become effective Oct. 1, the same date that McElroy's resignation will become effective.

"We plan to develop a rating system that takes into consideration the driving record—good or bad—of the individual," said Murray D. Lincoln, president of the Nationwide group, of which Trans-America will be part. "The better record a driver has, the less his insurance would cost."

He said an active public demand for insurance rates that will reward the careful driver caused formation of the company.

The National Assn. of Men's Apparel Clubs believes that boys are getting more clothes conscious. And a store in the Bronx section of New York City advertises Ivy League style suits for grade school boys.

The Boys' Apparel Buyers Assn. gleefully reports that in 1955 the nose counters found 5,682,000 boys in the 15 to 18 age group and look for 8,772,000 in that group in 1956 — all busily outgrowing their old clothes.

The college trade is proving lucrative. Some 3½ million students — up 206,000 this year, according to the U.S. education commissioner — are out shopping.

One of New York's top men's stores is enlarging its university shop.

Another is stressing its university model in its suit ads. A New York department store, offering an unabridged dictionary of college fashion, stresses motor scooter jackets, students' linen handkerchiefs strictly distinguished as to gender, and assures one and all that red is the favorite evening color for dancing coeds.

The button down dorm shirts in crimson cotton challis, waltz night gowns, pinafore robes and baby doll pants are advertised for girls' school.

One store thinks no college man should start back without a 100 per cent washable synthetic necktie.

A New York hardware store is out for the back-to-school trade with lamps, clocks, waste baskets and a big world atlas.

One specialty store makes a sentimental appeal: "Your grandfather and grandmother satisfied their back-to-school needs here."

Silent William Girard Due To Begin Talking Monday

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of articles giving the background to the Japanese trial of Illinois GI William Girard.

By GENE KRAMER
CAMP DREW, Japan — "I ain't got no comment. Anything I have to say, I'll say in court."

Repeating those words over and over, a young American soldier for seven months has held his tongue about the fantastic jam he is in.

Starting Monday, William S. Girard gets his day in court. That's when he goes on trial before three Japanese judges on charges of killing a Japanese woman brass-pick on a firing range.

Girard, 22, hopes he will be acquitted or get a suspended sentence on his claim that the Jan. 30 shooting was an accident while he was on guard duty.

Apart from the evidence, the slightly built, brown-haired Illinois soldier has one built-in argument in his defense — he can say he could not possibly kill a Japanese except by sheer accident, for he likes Japanese people and married a Japanese girl last month.

Prosecutors will try to show Girard was irresponsible, negligent and contemptuous of human life — especially Japanese — in pulling the trigger. But they may be hard-pressed to find anything in the soldier's humble Florida and Illinois upbringing to offset his demonstrated liking for Japanese.

After quitting school in his freshman year at Streator (Ill.) High, Girard tried several jobs, working for 45 days at the Owens-Illinois Glass Co. plant shortly before enlisting in 1953.

He liked the Army, which assigned him as a truck driver, and decided to make it his career. Until he went AWOL this month to drink beer outside the camp, the shooting was the only blemish on an otherwise good conduct record.

He arrived in Japan in 1955, re-enlisted in 1956, and hopes to do so again this fall unless his trial interferes. As a specialist third class, he earns $140 a month.

For nearly two years, his constant companion has been Haru Sueyama, a short, freckled one-time bar waitress six years older than himself. They were married last month.

"This is going to be my hobby for the rest of my life," Girard once said, caressing the girl, whom he nicknamed "Candy" because she likes sweets.

Since Girard came under investigation, she has loyally visited him every night in camp, often bringing him Japanese food which he likes.

"Three years ago, I started going out with GIs and decided to disconnect myself from my past, which I'm not very proud of, working in bars here and there and all ever since my folks died," Candy recalled. "When I met Girard, he used to drink quite heavily and no one wanted to have much to do with him. I forced him to straighten out, even sold my belongings once to support him when he spent all his money. Now he hardly ever touches a drop."

Japanese villagers of Kagohara, Girard's camp, know and like the couple, and credit Candy with making Girard into "a good man."

Throughout his tribulations, Girard has been loyal to his brother Louis, 38, head of the Girard family in Illinois since the illnesses of his late father and his mother.

It was Louis who persuaded William to deny Japanese jurisdiction in his case and allow Stateside lawyers to wage a six-week court battle in Washington against the U.S. agreement to a Japanese trial.

"As you know, I was following the orders of my brother . . . How I felt about it didn't make any difference," William said afterward.

Girard has taken issue with his brother on two other matters . . . Louis' original opposition to his marriage plans and criticism of Japanese, including use of the word "Jap."

"My brother has never been in Japan and he doesn't think the way I do," William says.

Housewife of Colonial Days Really Had an Endless Task

By ANNETTE DAVIS
WASHINGTON — If you've ever thought of housekeeping as an endless chore, you should visit the recently opened exhibit depicting everyday life in early America at the Smithsonian Institution.

In the four-room clapboard house which was erected in the Natural History Museum you can get a good idea of what the housewife did in colonial days. The house, built in 1695, was given to the Smithsonian by Dr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Greenwood who rescued it from destruction in 1927 in EVERETT, Mass. Until recently it has served as a library on the Greenwood property in Marlboro, Mass.

Now it is furnished just as it would have been in the days when the colonists occupied it. There's a cauldron hanging in the fireplace as a reminder that quick meals are today's innovation. Soups, stews and chowders, the main fare of the day, simmered for hours. Usually the meats had already been smoked or salted and pickled in order to preserve them. For seasoning, the housewife added herbs which she had steeped in pottery jars.

There were no bakeries in the rural districts so baking was another necessity. The colonial housewife baked in a brick oven built into the fireplace, without the help of a thermostat. She also cultivated her own yeast.

One of her most important jobs was doing out the family ration of sugar. Sugar was a great luxury and was purchased in the store in loaves. One 10 pound loaf was supposed to last a family a year. The housewife carefully cut the loaves into lumps for table use with a large iron sugar breaker.

But one task may have been simpler than it is today. There was no elaborate table setting. China was scarce so food was served in large wooden platters or in shallow pans. Forks, too, were rare and most of the food was eaten with spoons. If anything had to be cut at the table, the husband pulled out his pocketknife.

In addition to cooking, baking and sewing, the colonial housewife made her own soap, molded candles and dyed cloth before stitching it into garments. Most of this activity was carried on in the kitchen which served as an all-purpose family room.

Columbus Health Aides To Get Flu Vaccine

COLUMBUS — Two hundred units of Asiatic flu vaccine arrived in Columbus Thursday and will be given to Columbus Health Department personnel.

Dr. Richard Wenzel, chief of the communicable diseases section, said the vaccine will be given doctors, nurses and sanitation personnel.

No vaccine for private physicians to give patients has arrived in Columbus, as far as Dr. Wenzel knows.

Tot Shuns X-ray, Has Own Method

MIDDLETOWN — Eighteen-month-old Jan Jefferies wants no part of that X-ray business. She can take care of her ailments in her own manner.

Jan swallowed the winding key of her musical teddy bear. She began gasping for breath and her mother, Mrs. Kenneth Jefferies, rushed her to a hospital where physicians ordered immediate X-rays.

But Jan had different ideas. She set up a terrific howl and squirmed so much that the X-rays couldn't be taken.

In the midst of her violent protests, Jan started to cough. She coughed up the key and went home happy and without having had any X-rays.

COLUMBUS — Nationwide Insurance says it is forming a subsidiary company that will reward the careful driver.

The new multiple-line firm will be known as Trans-America Insurance Co. Applications for licenses will be filed soon.

P&G Taps Morgens To Replace McElroy

CINCINNATI — Howard J. Morgens Jr. was named Thursday as president of Procter & Gamble Co., to succeed Neil McElroy, new secretary of defense.

Morgens, 46, has been executive vice president in charge of the firm's operations in the United States since 1954. He has been with P&G since 1933.

His appointment as president will become effective Oct. 1, the same date that McElroy's resignation will become effective.

"We plan to develop a rating system that takes into consideration the driving record—good or bad—of the individual," said Murray D. Lincoln, president of the Nationwide group, of which Trans-America will be part. "The better record a driver has, the less his insurance would cost."

He said an active public demand for insurance rates that will reward the careful driver caused formation of the company.

Two Kindergarten Classes Planned At St. Andrew's

Two classes are planned by St. Andrew's kindergarten school be-ginning Sept. 4. The popularity of the program has made it neces-sary to schedule one morning class and an afternoon class.

Mrs. Jack Montgomery will con-duct the morning class from 9 to 11:30 a. m. Twenty-five 5-year-olds will be enrolled in the morning class.

Registration for the afternoon class, to be held from 1 to 3:30 p.m., is still open. Mrs. Winston Hill will be in charge.

Further information about the program may be obtained by call-ing Mrs. Hugh Rea or Mrs. Wil-liam Stoughton.

You Need The Church-The Church Needs You

THE SWORD of the spirit is the word of God. Eph. 6:17. The cutting word is a two-edged sword; truth cutting through falsehood or the hurting word cutting into innocent hearts. Talking is a terrible responsibility. Words create or crush. Your words are your union card; they put you in the construction crew or the wrecking gang. Words are ambassadors of the mind...choose those that will make treaties of peace, not declarations of war. In America there are nearly 300,000 Churches where "His Word" is fed to hungry souls. The word of God is living and active and sharper than any two-edged sword. Jesus offered life to those who would hear His words and believe. You can be sure the best people are church-going people...do you go to church?

You In The Church... The Church In You
Form a combination for good. We should attend church regularly. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the CHURCH. Be faithful. Be a Churchman!

Two Kindergarten Classes Planned At St. Andrew's

Two classes are planned by St. Andrew's kindergarten school beginning Sept. 4. The popularity of the program has made it necessary to schedule one morning class and an afternoon class.

Mrs. Jack Montgomery will conduct the morning class from 9 to 11:30 a. m. Twenty-five 5-year-olds will be enrolled in the morning class.

Registration for the afternoon class, to be held from 1 to 3:30 p. m., is still open. Mrs. Winston Hill will be in charge.

Further information about the program may be obtained by calling Mrs. Hugh Rea or Mrs. William Stoughton.

Columbus, New Mex., is the site of the last invasion of the United States by foreign troops. On March 9, 916 a group of bandits led by Mexican rebel Francisco "Pancho" Villa crossed the border and raided Columbus, killing 16 Americans and burning much of the town.

Milwaukee's Buhl,
Cardinals' Musial
Rub Sore Shoulders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Injuries moved smack dab into the middle of the National League pennant picture today with right-hander Bob Buhl, a 16-game winner for first-place Milwaukee, and Stan Musial, the batting ace for second-place St. Louis, hit by shoulder miseries.

Adding to the Braves' woes, outfielder Wes Covington has been sidelined or four or five days because of a pulled heel tendon. Shortstop Johnny Logan, outfielder Billy Bruton and first baseman Joe Adcock are already on the injured list.

Buhl, who has won seven straight in Milwaukee's climb to the top although bothered by an inflamed shoulder for a month, returned to Milwaukee for treatment Thursday night as the Braves, playing like champions, plunked third-place Brooklyn 7½ games behind with a 6-1 victory at Ebbets Field.

Musial, the bat leader at .340, gave way with what a preliminary examination revealed as a torn muscle suffered while batting in Thursday night's 6-5 victory at Philadelphia which kept the Cards within 6½ games of first.

Team trainers said Musial, who holds a league record for consecutive games played, may be out several days—"perhaps weeks."

In the other NL games, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 8-3, the Redlegs' 10th successive defeat and the longest slump of the year in the league. The New York Giants defeated Chicago's Cubs 6-2 with Willie Mays 3-for-4, including his 28th home run, for a runner-up bat average of .332.

The New York Yankees reverted to form and banged Kansas City 11-4, regaining a 6½-game edge over the idle second-place Chicago White Sox in the American League. Boston whipped Cleveland 11-3 and Detroit trimmed Baltimore 4-0 on the four-hit pitching of Frank Lary.

Boston's Ted Williams, hitless for two days, had two singles in four trips, putting his leading average at .386. Yankee Mickey Mantle, who also had been without a hit for two days, was 1-or-4, but lost another point for a .377 mark.

It was a breeze for the Braves, with Hank Aaron's 35th home run a three-run first-inning shot that was all Lew Burdette needed for his 12th victory. He tossed a seven-hitter.

Sal Maglie lost it for a 6-6 record, giving up five hits and four runs in his five frames. The Braves had 11 hits in all—three each from Red Schoendienst, who hit his 14th home run, Ed Matthews and Bob Hazle.

Ken Boyer drove in two runs or the Cards. Wallopings a 14th home run that cleared the left field stands at Philly, and bringing in the clincher with a sacrifice fly. Rookie Bill Muffett, retiring the side in a three-run sixth and blanking the Phils on three hits the rest of the way, was given the victory by the official scorer, although starter Larry Jackson had pitched the minimum five innings required for a victory. Jack Sanford lost his fifth.

The Pirates smacked 15 hits and scored five in the fourth that nailed the Redlegs for Bob Friend's ninth victory against 16 defeats. Don Gross lost it.

Hank Sauer also homered for the Giants as Ray Crone gained a 6-7 record, although needing a relief help after shutting out the Cubs on five hits for seven.

Harry Simpson hit a grand slammer in a six-run third for the Yankees. Johnny Kucks won in relief. Yogi Berra also homered for the Yanks, off bonus left Dave Hill, making his first appearance.

Williams, 0-for-6 at Cleveland, had two singles as the Red Sox rapped 14 hits, one Jackie Jensen's 15th home run. Mike Fornieles won it, blanking the Tribe on five hits for his eighth victory. Early Wynn lost his fifth in a row for a 13-15 record—his worse since 1948.

Lary, who led the AL with 21 victories last year, picked up a 7-15 record with his third consecutive victory. He faced only 25 batters and walked none in the first Detroit shutout since May 14.

Rookie Fullback
Impresses Brown

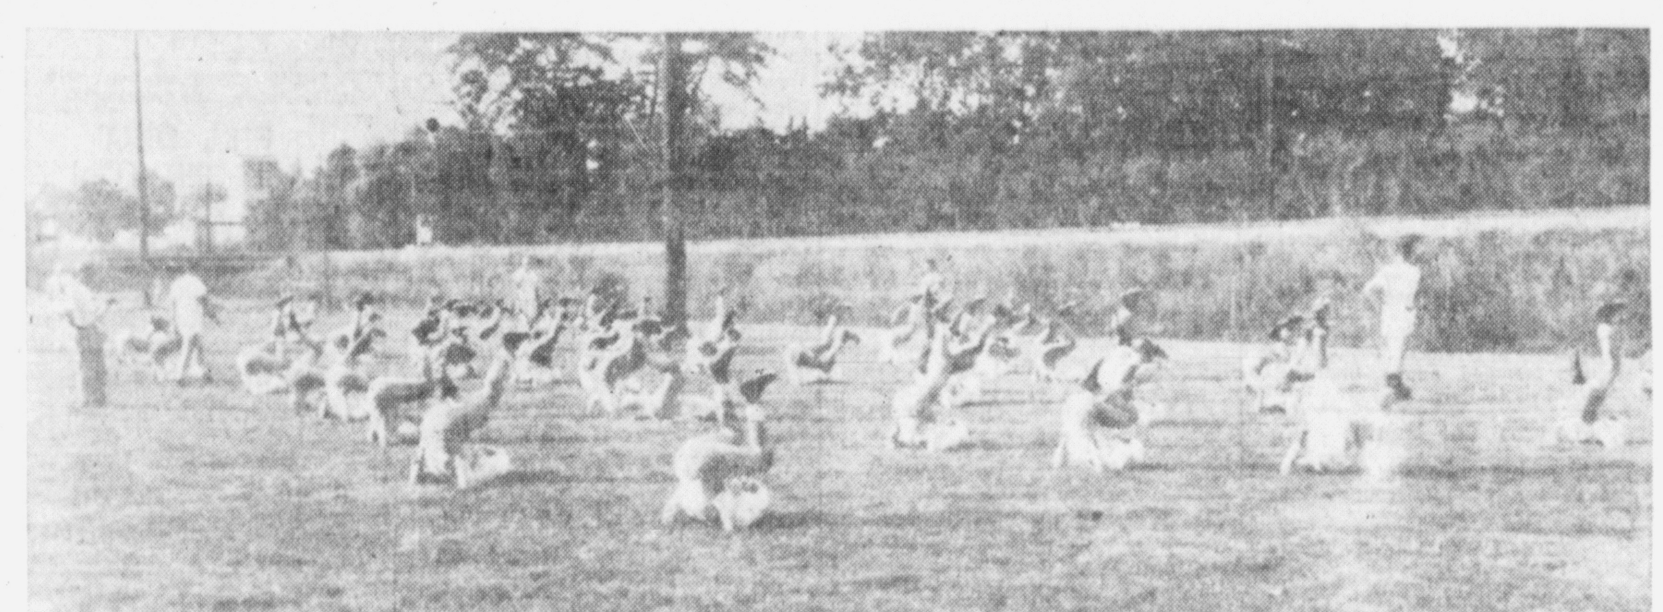

HIRAM — Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns thinks Jim Brown is "the fastest big man we've had since Marion Motley."

To folks who remember Motley's cannonball runs, that's high praise for the 21-year-old rookie from Syracuse.

"And I'm talking about Marion in his prime," said Brown. "Jim not only has the speed, but he's a contact football player. We like very much what we've seen."

The 223-pound, 6-2 youngster was the Browns' No. 1 draft choice. He's competing at fullback with Ed Modelewski and Maurice Bassett.

It's Hard Work...but It Makes Grid Teams

Cleveland '9' Set To Host Yanks, Mantle

CLEVELAND — After cooling off Ted Williams but losing two out of three to the Boston Red Sox, the Cleveland Indians get a crack at Mickey Mantle and the New York Yankees tonight.

Williams, who had gone 0 for 6 in the first two games against the Indians, hit two singles in four trips Thursday. The Red Sox took the rubber game 11-3.

Out in Kansas City, Mantle snapped an 0 for 11 famine with a single in four trips which dropped his average to .377, nine points behind Terrible Ted.

Mantle will be facing Cleveland's top pitcher tonight, fireballing Ray Narleski. Manager Kerby Farrell plans to send his other converted fireman, Don Mossi, Saturday in the Tribe's final home game of the season against the New Yorkers.

Casey Stengel has selected Bobby Shantz and Whitey Ford. The Red Sox rapped 14 hits off three pitchers Thursday in giving Early Wynn his fifth straight defeat and 15th of the season against 13 victories.

Boston got eight hits and six runs in five innings off Wynn, four hits and three runs in three innings off Bud Daley, and two hits and two runs off Dick Tomanek in the ninth inning.

New Yorker Holds Lead In JC Test

COLUMBUS — A gangling youth from Lancaster, N. Y., carried a precarious two-stroke advantage into the third round today of the 12th annual International Jaycee junior golf tournament.

John Konsek, New York's 17-year-old junior champ and Jaycee titlist, shot par Thursday on Ohio State University's 6,810-yard par 72 layout to take the lead at the halfway mark.

He parlayed his 72 with a first round 73 for a two-day total of 145. In second place with a 71-76-147 was Jackie Nicklaus, Columbus, the favorite to win the 72-hole medal play competition.

Labron Harris Jr., a 15-year-old performer from Stillwater Okla., continued in the running with a 74-76-150, good for third place. He fashioned rounds of 38 and 40 to stay one stroke ahead of Payne Palmer III, Phoenix, Ariz., who showed a 75-76-151.

Gerald Cundari, Portland, Ore., held down fifth place with a 78-74-152 while Richard Youngberg, Northbrook, Ill., fell from first place to sixth after he floundered in with an 82. Youngberg, who shot one-under par 71 in Wednesday's opener, has a 153.

Logart Risks Rank Against Bostonian

DETROIT — Cuban welterweight Isaac Logart risks his No. 2 ranking here tonight against up-and-coming Walter Byars of Boston in a televised 10-round bout.

"I reek nothing," said Logart. "I ween thees one beeg and then I ween championship—then I have beg money."

Logart, who says he is two years younger than the 24 years the record books indicate, is a 11-5 favorite to win over the light-punching easterner. In 61 professional fights Logart has won 50, lost 6 and fought five draws.

Rademacher Goes 6 Rounds Before Falling to Champ

SEATTLE — Floyd Patterson, the cool destroyer who holds the world heavyweight championship, cut down powerful Pete Rademacher Thursday night and turned to dust the big guy's dream of stepping from the amateur peak to the pinnacle of the pros.

Referee Tommy Loughran waved off the count, ruling it no knockdown but later in his dressing room Floyd said he was bowled over by the punch.

Humiliation
Of Redlegs
Still Growing

PITTSBURGH — The deepening humiliation of the Cincinnati Redlegs has reached the record books—10 straight losses, the longest fadout in the National League this season.

It is the biggest string of Redleg defeats since Birdie Tebbetts became manager in 1954.

The Reds' 6-3 loss Thursday night to the Pittsburgh Pirates dropped the Rhinelanders' 13½ games off the league pace set by Milwaukee.

Thursday's game also included some bad baseball—including four Redleg errors.

Bob Friend's nine-hit pitching helped send the Reds to defeat, although for the first four innings, Redleg starter Don Gross held the Pirates on even terms.

But in the fifth, the deadlock was ended by a five-run Pirate out-burst that sent Gross to the showers. The Pirates belted five hits and capitalized on the first of Gus Bell's two errors.

The second of three games scheduled here comes tonight with Joe Nuxhall booked to oppose Bob Purkey on the mound.

Hometown Sets Pace in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE — Manuel De La Torre of Milwaukee, who stands 97th on the 1957 PGA Golf earnings list with earnings of less than $1,000, today led the field into the second round of the $35,000 Milwaukee Open golf tourney.

Trailing the 35-year-old pro from the nearby Milwaukee Country Club are 16 of the nation's 18 top money winners. Their goal is the $6,000 first prize.

De La Torre, who has been a pro since 1947 without attracting much attention outside of Wisconsin, toured Tripoli Golf Club's 6,355-yard layout in a 5-under-par 65 Thursday for a one stroke lead.

Right behind him with 66s were Bo Winner of Odessa, Tex., and Jackie Burke Jr., of Kiamasha Lakes, N. Y.

Applying pressure with 67s on the man who usually stays close-to-home were Howie Johnson of Houston, Tex., Walker Inman of Pensacola, Fla., Al Besselnik of Grossingers, N. Y., Don Whitt of Alameda, Calif., and San Francisco's Bob Rosburg.

Also finding Tripoli's rolling fairways, fast greens and cropped rough to their liking were Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., defending champion Ed Furgol from St. Andrews, Ill., San Francisco's Ken Venturi, Gene Littler of Singing Hills, Calif., Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., and Gary Middlecoff of Dallas.

Snead, Venturi, Finsterwald and Littler had 68s while Furgol and Middlecoff chalked 69s.

Ouchy Muscles Plaguing Stars Of NL Leaders

Milwaukee's Buhl,
Cardinals' Musial
Rub Sore Shoulders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Injuries moved smack dab into the middle of the National League pennant picture today with right-hander Bob Buhl, a 16-game winner for first-place Milwaukee, and Stan Musial, the batting ace for second-place St. Louis, hit by shoulder miseries.

Adding to the Braves' woes, outfielder Wes Covington has been sidelined for four or five days because of a pulled heel tendon. Shortstop Johnny Logan, outfielder Billy Bruton and first baseman Joe Adcock are already on the injured list.

Buhl, who has won seven straight in Milwaukee's climb to the top although bothered by an inflamed shoulder for a month, returned to Milwaukee for treatment Thursday night as the Braves, playing like champions, plunked third-place Brooklyn 7½ games behind with a 6-1 victory at Ebbets Field.

Musial, the bat leader at .340, gave way with what a preliminary examination revealed as a torn muscle suffered while batting in Thursday night's 6-5 victory at Philadelphia which kept the Cards within 6½ games of first.

Team trainers said Musial, who holds a league record for consecutive games played, may be out several days—"perhaps weeks."

In the other NL games, Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati 8-3, the Redlegs' 10th successive defeat and the longest slump of the year in the league. The New York Giants defeated Chicago's Cubs 6-2 with Willie Mays 3-for-4, including his 28th home run, for a runner-up bat average of .332.

The New York Yankees reverted to form and banged Kansas City 11-4, regaining a 6½-game edge over the idle second-place Chicago White Sox in the American League. Boston whipped Cleveland 11-3 and Detroit trimmed Baltimore 4-0 on the four-hit pitching of Frank Lary.

Boston's Ted Williams, hitless for two days, had one single in four trips, putting his leading average at .386. Yankee Mickey Mantle, who also had been without a hit for two days, was 1-for-4, but lost another point for a .377 mark.

It was a breeze for the Braves, with Hank Aaron's 35th home run a three-run first-inning shot that was all Low Burdette needed for his 12th victory. He tossed a seven-hitter.

Sal Maglie lost it for a 6-6 record, giving up five hits and four runs in his five frames. The Braves had 11 hits in all—three each from Red Schoendienst, who hit his 14th home run, Ed Mathews and Bob Hazle.

Ken Boyer drove in two runs or the Cards. Wallopings a 14th home run that cleared the left field stands at Philly, and bringing in the clincher with a sacrifice fly. Rookie Bill Muffett, retiring the side in a three-run sixth and blanking the Phils on three hits the rest of the way, was given the victory by the official scorer, although starter Larry Jackson had pitched the minimum five innings required for a victory. Jack Sanford lost his fifth.

The Pirates smacked 15 hits and scored five in the fourth that nailed the Redlegs for Bob Friend's ninth victory against 16 defeats. Don Gross lost it.

Hank Sauer also homered for the Giants as Ray Crone gained a 6-7 record, although a needling relief help after shutting out the Cubs on five hits for seven.

Harry Simpson hit a grand slammer in a six-run third for the Yankees. Johnny Kucks won in relief. Yogi Berra also homered for the Yanks, off bonus left Dave Hill, making his first appearance.

Williams, 0-for-6 at Cleveland, had two singles as the Red Sox rapped 14 hits, one Jackie Jensen's 15th home run. Mike Fornieles won it, blanking the Tribe on five hits for his eighth victory. Early Wynn lost his fifth in a row for a 13-15 record—his worse since 1948.

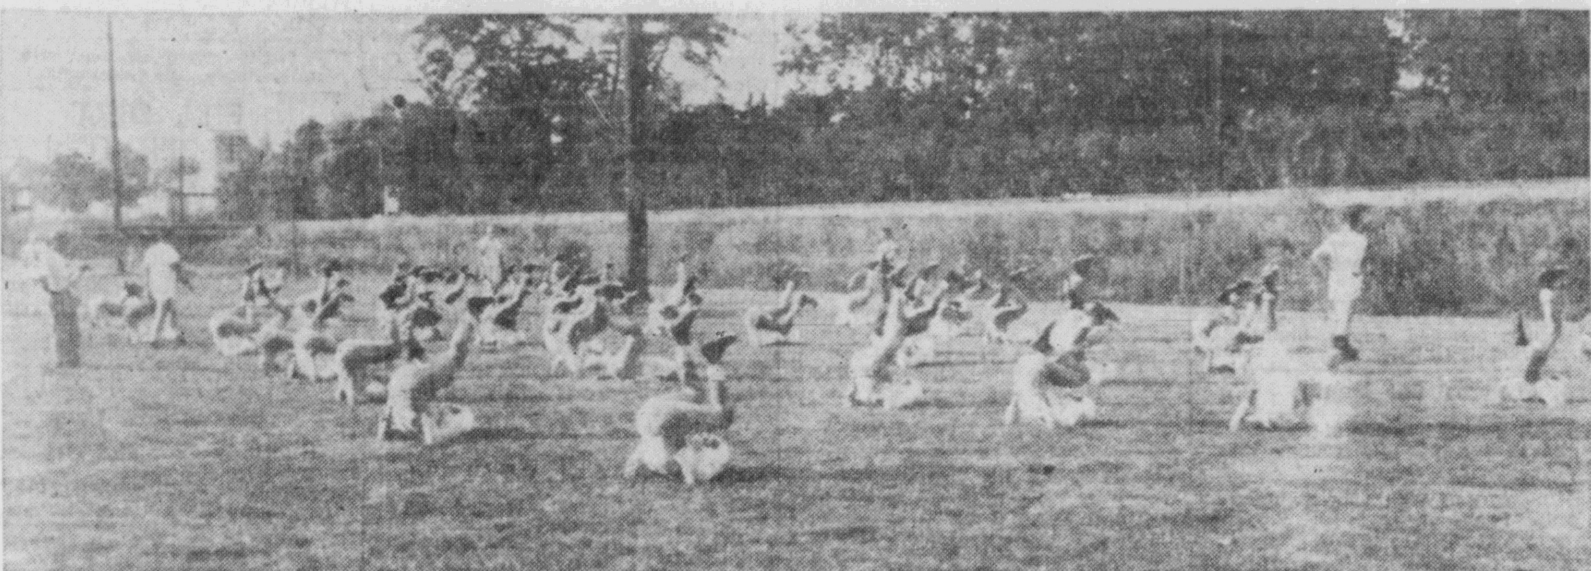

Lary, who led the AL with 21 victories last year, picked up a 7-15 record with his third consecutive victory. He faced only 25 batters and walked none in the first Detroit shutout since May 14.

Rookie Fullback Impresses Brown

HIRAM (AP)—Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns thinks Jim Brown is "the fastest big man we've had since Marion Motley." To folks who remember Motley's cannonball runs, that's high praise for the 21-year-old rookie from Syracuse.

"And I'm talking about Marion in his prime," said Brown. "Jim not only has the speed, but he's a contact football player. We like very much what we've seen." The 223-pound, 6-2 youngster was the Browns' No. 1 draft choice. He's competing at fullback with Ed Modzelewski and Maurice Bassett.

Cleveland '9' Set To Host Yanks, Mantle

CLEVELAND (AP)—After cooling off Ted Williams but losing two out of three to the Boston Red Sox, the Cleveland Indians get a crack at Mickey Mantle and the New York Yankees tonight.

Williams, who had gone 0 for 6 in the first two games against the Indians, hit two singles in four trips Thursday. The Red Sox took the rubber game 11-3.

Out in Kansas City, Mantle snapped an 0 for 11 famine with a single in four trips which dropped his average to .377, nine points behind Ted.

Mantle will be facing Cleveland's top pitcher tonight, fireballing Ray Narleski. Manager Kirby Farrell plans to send his other converted fireman, Don Mossi, Saturday in the Tribe's final home game of the season against the New Yorkers.

Casey Stengel has selected Bob by Shantz and Whitey Ford. The Red Sox rapped 14 hits off three pitchers Thursday in giving Early Wynn his fifth straight defeat and 15th of the season against 13 victories.

Boston got eight hits and six runs in five innings off Wynn, four hits and three runs in three innings off Bud Daley, and two hits and two runs off Dick Tomanek in the ninth inning.

New Yorker Holds Lead In JC Test

COLUMBUS (AP)—A gangling youth from Lancaster, N. Y., carried a precarious two-stroke advantage into the third round today of the 12th annual International Jaycee junior golf tournament.

John Konsek, New York's 17-year-old junior champ and Jaycee titlist, shot par Thursday on Ohio State University's 6,810-yard par 72 layout to take the lead at the halfway mark.

He parlayed his 72 with a first round 73 for a two-day total of 145. In second place with a 71-76-147 was Jackie Nicklaus, Columbus, the favorite to win the 72-hole medal play competition. Labron Harris Jr., a 15-year-old performer from Stillwater Okla., continued in the running with a 74-76-150, good for third place. He fashioned rounds of 36 and 40 to stay one stroke ahead of Payne Palmer III, Phoenix, Ariz., who showed a 75-76-151.

Gerald Cundari, Portland, Ore., held down fifth place with a 78-74-152 while Richard Youngberg, Northbrook, Ill., fell from first place to sixth after he floundered in with an 82. Youngberg, who shot one-under par 71 in Wednesday's opener, has a 153.

Logart Risks Rank Against Bostonian

DETROIT (AP)—Cuban welterweight Isaac Logart risks his No. 2 ranking here tonight against up-and-coming Walter Byars of Boston in a televised 10-round bout.

"I reek nothing," said Logart. "I've won three one-beeg and then I've won championships—then I have beg money."

Logart, who says he is two years younger than the 21 years the record books indicate, is a 11-5 favorite to win over the light-punching easterner. In 61 professional fights Logart has won 50, lost 6 and fought five draws.

warily to his feet the referee waved Patterson away. Most ring-siders thought Loughran was stopping the fight, but the referee said the count had reached 10 and it was a knockout.

After the battle Rademacher offered no alibis and Patterson was high in his praise for the challenger, who had dreamed up this fight and made it real. Rademacher is the first man ever to step from the amateur ranks directly into a heavyweight championship fight.

"He has all the qualifications of a future great fighter," Floyd said.

"When somebody is chopping at you with an ax you have to go down eventually," grinned Rademacher, holding a chunk of ice to a slightly puffed eye. Asked if he felt fighting for nothing was worth the effort, he said, "Very definitely."

The bout drew a gross gate of $243,030—far short of the anticipated full-house $400,000. Rademacher's backers—a group of Georgia businessmen—put up Patterson's guarantee of $250,000 and took both fighters' share of the gate—60 per cent of the $209,556 net or just under $125,500.

Patterson said this would be his last fight in 1957. Asked if he would fight again now that he has become a professional Rademacher said that was something he would decide later.

"He is," said Loughran of Rademacher, "the most courageous fighter I have ever seen."

Loughran, who was sole judge, scored the first two rounds for Rademacher and gave the rest to Floyd. The Associated Press card agreed, except for calling the first round even.

Humiliation Of Redlegs Still Growing

Prominent Boys Labeled Vandals

COLUMBUS (AP)—Complaints filed in juvenile court here accuse sons of some of the most prominent families in suburban Bexley of being members of a gang engaged in vandalism.

The complaints name nine boys as members of a gang. Four are named in two beating complaints and six in a vandalism complaint.

The complaint stemmed from a month-long investigation financed by Walter Franc, retired Bexley business executive, whose stepson, John Larcher, 16, reportedly was beaten by a member of the gang July 29.

The flag of Ohio is different from every other state flag in the nation in that it is of a swallow-tailed pennant shape.

Charles Dickens traveled through Ohio in 1842, writing comments on Ohio people and life.
